Dear Willelee

We got your letter and were deeply Saddened by your news. Was he older or younger than you & Kenneth. Ken is having a hard time remembering ages but he remembers him. I am so sorry, I can see why it would bring everything back to you.

I lost my mother in 86 - My dad in 90 & my only sibling brother in 92. Just like that it seemed my world was very changed - forever - and I know I'll miss them for the rest of my life. Its awsome when you think about it. As long as someone is in our hearts & memory, they live on. I can tack to my mom anytime anywhere, as I feel shes always with me. My dad was always alusive & he is still but if I needed something really bad he was always there. He still is. My Brother was a loveable scamp. He drank to much & partied. He was a gormet chef & everything he made was delicious. He had a great job as Chef of the Magic Castle in Hollywood and was very funny. He did things like send my daughter home (60) miles a way in a big limousin, so she wouldn't be put on the planned for bus. Gave $50 tips to waitresses & the party followed him. Don the other hand was more family oriented & prudish (he thought) but knowing him was a neat thing. You never knew when he'd show up & party began. I started crying writing this so I'm sorry but I'd better close now - Sending you our deepest sympathy and wish you a Happier New Year.

Love
Patti & Kenneth

Dear Willielee,

The year has flown by. Here it is time to recall fond memories of family & friends.

I hope this has been a better year in your life.

Bob & I celebrated our 50th wedding Anniversary over the Labor Day weekend. We had a party on Saturday to celebrate the Anniversary. On Sunday we had all the family at our house for a wonderful reunion. Wesley & J.R. & wives were here & some of their families & all of our daughters & most of their families were here. We were only missing one grandson & 2 great grand children. We worked for months putting it together. With lots of help it came off in a great way. That was the highlight of our year.

Of Course, Bob & I are so thankful to have 50 years together. Our retirement years are being enjoyed in a super way.

For old folks we feel pretty good most of the time.

Will be leaving in Jan & be away until May. Will be in Southern calif. We had planned & hoped to be in Nevada & Ariz. this year but plans just didn't work out.

I thought you might like to have one of the pictures we included in our invitations to our 50th –

We hope your Holidays are filled with Love, Joy & Peace as our Lord gives us.

Love & God bless

Hi

Sure enjoyed our chat yesterday. It is kinda nice to have you in one spot for awhile. I enjoy knowing where you are.

We are putting up the trees today. After moving all the furniture around and setting up two trees we need a break so I'm finishing up the last of a dozen or so cards. I should spend my spare time cooking next week.

Willie, I know you still are lonesome especially at this time of year. You are loved and we all pray you find peace of mind and strength to enjoy the many joys you still have.

We will be thinking of you and your sweet loving family.

Lovingly
Bennie

December, 1998

Peace and Joy to You!

We hope your holiday season is filled with blessings!

It's not possible that 1998 is drawing to a close. It can't – it just started didn't it? At least that's how it seems to us.

Jim is still a Sony, bicycle, computer person. However, he now has added truck loving to the list. This past July he got a Ford Ranger and is very pleased with it. Quite a change for someone that was a VW bug lover not so long ago!

Gayle is still shuffling out insurance at the dental office several days a week. She also still enjoys her artistic rubber-stamping and has added crocheting baby blankets and afghans.

On April 8, 1998, our oldest son, Jay, became a father. Dustin "Dusty" James is a doll. Dusty is the light of Jay's life! Jim and Gayle have discovered the unique joy of being grandparents! Every chance available is spent loving that little guy.

In May Gayle's parents came to town for a visit. While they were here, everyone was able to celebrate Jason's graduation from college. Jim and Gayle's buttons were about to pop when Jason got his Bachelor's Degree – with honors – in counseling / psychology! What a day for all of us!

Jason is now teaching Bible at a Christian Jr. High / High School. He also coaches the seventh grade flag football team (football needs to be in there somewhere). In the evenings he is working on his Master's Degree (don't know where his smarts and drive come from, but we're not complaining). Rory still teaches full time at a Christian Pre-School.

This Christmas will be new and different. Jason and Rory will be in Montana with Gayle's folks, but we will have Dustin to refresh our outlook on Christmas. Next Christmas we should be adding another fresh outlook. Jason and Rory are expecting their first child in early July!

We wish for you all the very merriest Christmas and a New Year overflowing with happiness!

May God Bless!
Jim, Gayle, Jason, Rory, Jay and Dustin

Dear Friends and Family,

I need your help! On February 20th, 1999, Mom and Dad will be celebrating their fiftieth (50th) wedding anniversary. Since they now live in Montana, there isn't much I can do to help them celebrate. They've repeatedly said they don't want a "Big Fuss" made over it, but I would like to try to make sure they are at least bombarded with congratulations and good wishes.

At the end of January, I will send out notes to everyone I can think of that would be interested in sending a card, letter, picture or whatever to Mom and Dad to help mark this special occasion. My problem is that I am short on the names and addresses of those people. So... please send me the names and addresses of anyone you can think of that might be interested. I would be very grateful!!

Thanks, I really appreciate your help!

Love,

Gayle

Dear Willielee,

Hope you are fine and have a great holiday season and a wonderful New Year!

We are grandparents for the 2nd time. Our oldest Elery + his wife Elsie have a lovely little girl Megan (Oct 24) who joins brother Matthias, 16 months. I flew down for a week to visit + help out in Calif. where Elery is stationed in the U.S. Navy Seabees.

Our younger son Nick is also in the U.S. Navy and still in Italy till this spring.

Our daughter Aurora graduates from the Food Technology program at our state vocational school on the 18th.

Jim will be home tomorrow from Kazakstan, Central Asia where he works as rig electrician for Parker Drilling Co. of Tulsa, OK, for his month off. He has been there a year now.

Where are you living now, Willielee?

The Season's Greetings

There's never a Christmas morning,
There's never an old year ends,
But somebody thinks of some one,

God Knew Our Greatest Need

If our greatest need
had been information
God would have sent us an educator
If our greatest need
had been technology
God would have sent us a scientist
If our greatest need
had been money
God would have sent us an economist
If our greatest need
had been pleasure
God would have sent us an entertainer
But our greatest need was forgiveness
So God sent us a Savior

This Christmas may you see how great His love is toward you.

The boys are going to public school this year Probably to save money for Summer's College. They don't like it.

The weather here has been beautiful so warm but I would like snow. The bushes are leaving out. They think it's Spring I have lost about 2 inches in heigth & only weigh 115 lbs

Our pastor is resigning in Oct. He has been here over 20 years He is so good & works so hard, It will be hard to find another one.

I started a neighborhood Bible Class

Doug decorated the piano with houses etc to look like San Diego Area He has La Mesa, El Cajon, Johnston, Julian Begonia gardens etc, He even has trucks with Ham brothers written on them & water pipes etc. He put icicles lights on outside of house, looks nice.

Our Chihuahua dog died. We have an onery cat. He bites me when she wants something to eat. He is long haired, black & white but not loving like most cats. The neighbor gave him to us. He was starved & was in the motor of a truck, I like

Dear Willie

I finally got around to writing Derwood does not feel well. He has shingles & can barely walk. I suspect he is getting Alkeimers, I hope not He scares me when he drives but he insists on doing it.

We are planning to go to Calif in Jan or Feb. I dread it.

Daryl moved back here in June He has opened a store in Gravette but the town is so small I think he will have trouble. It is a dog store, shirts Collars, treats etc. It is a nice store & has it fixed up really nice, Doug & Mena are still with us I would love to be by ourselves.

Doug still works at Tyson & Mena at Wal-mart, they work nights & sleep days

Cats but I couldn't [illegible] this one!

somebody robbed our car the other night of ~~[illegible]~~. Ins gave us a check but we have to pay deductible. They stole Doug's also but it was not original in his jeep so he got nothing

Roger has a lot of Mexicans moving in, We have 3 families on our street

LOREN AND SHERRON
WOODSIDE

1998 HOLIDAYS

Dear Willie Lee:

Loren attempted to call you last year about this time. We hope to you are enjoying your holidays!

CRITTERS The first of the year an emancipated (the most your could see was bones) half grown cat showed up on our doorstep. Loren felt sorry for this animal and we took it in. Sherron tried all the fattening foods she could think of. Kitty (since we were not creative in naming her) was doing pretty good and then we discovered she had eaten some Decon, mouse/rat poison (NEVER had a cat do that before!). She immediately went into the Vets and was in intensive care for 5 days. We called after a couple of days and was surprised she was still alive. After her stint in there she recovered at home for about 3 weeks BEFORE we took her back in to be spade. Her name is now MS Kitty (spent so much money on her!).

Sherron's brother (Jerry) had a horse in cutting training, and the horse was injured doing a show in May. Jerry wanted to continue her training but the Vet said she could be ridden but not worked. Sherron offered to put saddle time on her (reality check - after 38 years!?!). This was a project for Sherron during the good weather months.

We lost our Katie (#4 dog) the first part of November to a road accident. Number 5 dog, Pepper, is still our buddy - now she only has MS Kitty to pick on.

TRAPSHOOTING Loren continues to enjoy his shooting (March through August). He travels about the Pacific Northwest to different clubs for competition. Sometimes he will hit a place more than once during the shoot season. It must still be a hobby - not making any money at it.

TRAVEL Loren and Sherron blasted off for "East of the Mississippi" on July 27th. We traveled to Missouri for the BUNCH reunion, into Indiana to pick up some items for Sherron and then north into Michigan to connect with Loren's AUGST relatives. This travel trip was scheduled between Loren's shoot dates - he got home the night of the 26th of July and we had to be back from our trip no later than the 9th of August so he could leave for Pocatello, Idaho on the morning of the 11th. This was all accomplished by only sleeping in the pickup (this was on the way home) one night, couldn't find any rooms in a radius of 200 miles at Sturgis, South Dakota (annual Harley Davidson rally). Perfect timing!

REMODEL Last year Sherron reported she was lining up a contractor for a kitchen remodel. Start time was scheduled for the first of May (Sherron thought), contractors started on June 1 - YEP in and out in 3 weeks! They just finished the last of the touch up on November 24th! But we're HAPPY! We actually had the south side of the main floor re-done. Total kitchen tear out and remodel, new floor (laminated wood) - kitchen, hallway, office and bathroom, total (95%) bathroom remodel (EXCEPT toilet - wanted to retain a good flush!), new shelves in the office, new storage space in the hallway, new steel exterior doors on the front and back, including storm doors.

CONSTRUCTION When they built our shop they put Tyvek lining on the inside of the roof. Within the first year we had various tears in the lining -so the first of the year we had the contractor reinsulate the roof and build a storage loft at the same time.

PHOTOS When we cleared out Sherron's mothers house all the pictures (from 3 generations including slides and 8mm film) were given to brother Jerry to deal with. Well, 5 years later, Sherron decided to get something done with the accumulation. She retrieved them from her brother, made copies (3 each) of unusual slides (that was spendy!) and is searching for a processor to deal with the 8mm film.

ANNUAL MAILING for Canadian Outfitter Same each year, just more volume.

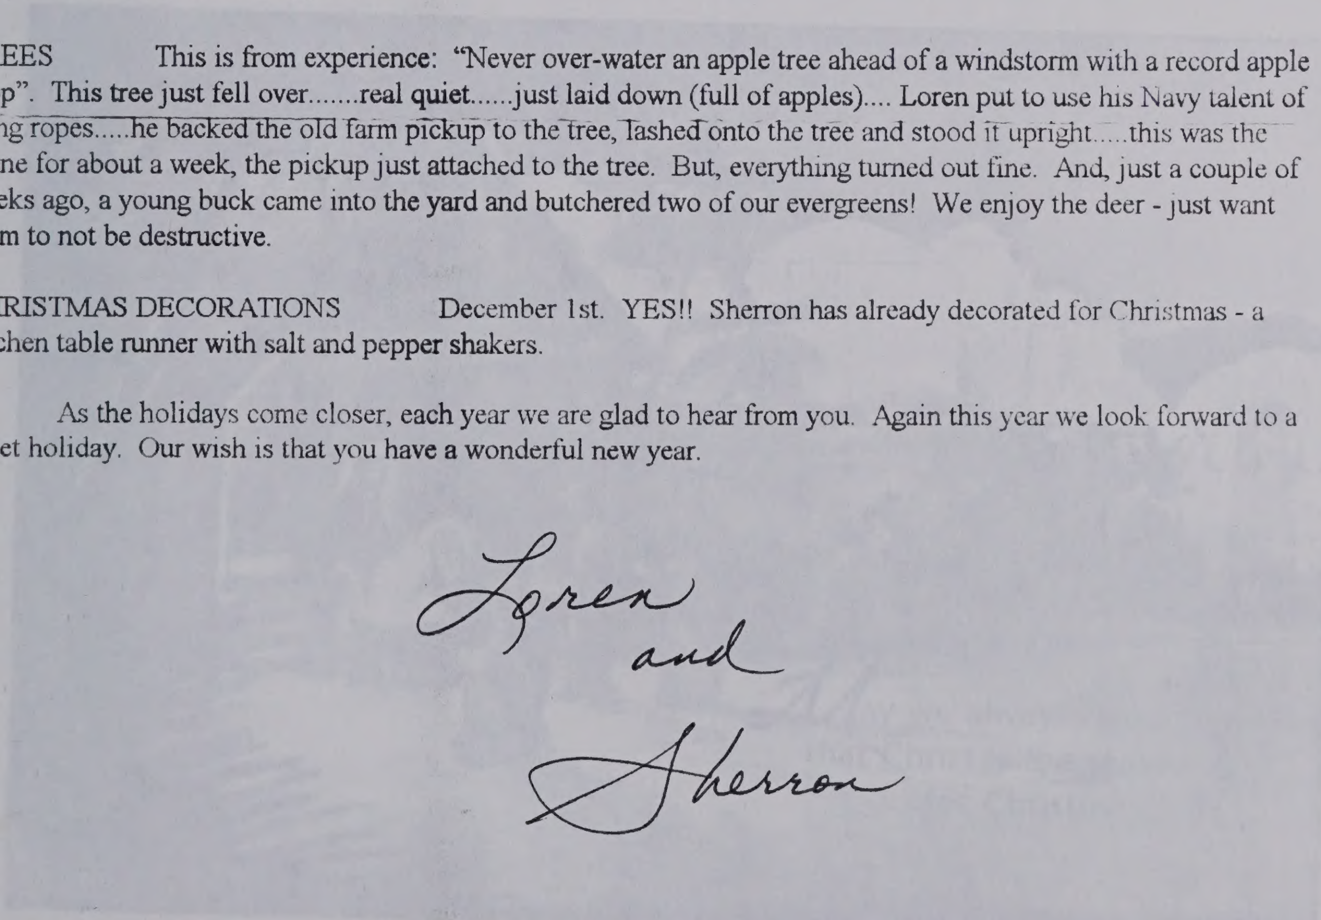
HUNTING This year we had Sherron's nephew, Brian, age 12, go deer hunting with us. He came early, Thursday night (lot's of things to do to get ready, especially for a young man on his first hunt). Saturday morning - UP and AT THEM! Loren took Brian on some good sneaks (walking for a city kid), they threw some bullets around at bucks. Sunday was another work (walking) period for this kid. Late in the afternoon Loren and Brian did a super sneak on a huge two point. Lots of bullets and Brian gets his deer (with NO wasted meat)! We took his picture in the headlights of the pickup. Nice kid and lots of fun. Brian's deal with his parents was: "you keep your grades up and you can go hunting".

We cut up deer meat and then Loren was off to Canada for his annual moose hunt. He brought home a nice young bull for good tender meat.

Loren hunts for elk in the mountains about a half hour drive from our house. A friend came up from California to stay with us and hunt with Loren. Their tags were for a specific time period and for spikes only. The elk continue to romp freely in the woods.

VOLUNTEER WORK Sherron continues to be on too many boards that don't pay anything and expect a lot of time from the individual.

FARMS We have a young man and his family leasing the farm property in Oregon. We have also rented out the house at the home place (where Sherron's folks lived). During the summer we had a chap from Washington tear down an old house located in Clarks Canyon, we think he still has some clean up to do. This was an easier way to remove the building since you can't have a practice burn with the fire department - NO asbestos, NO, linoleum, NO insulation, etc.



TREES This is from experience: "Never over-water an apple tree ahead of a windstorm with a record apple crop". This tree just fell over.......real quiet......just laid down (full of apples).... Loren put to use his Navy talent of tying ropes.....he backed the old farm pickup to the tree, lashed onto the tree and stood it upright.....this was the scene for about a week, the pickup just attached to the tree. But, everything turned out fine. And, just a couple of weeks ago, a young buck came into the yard and butchered two of our evergreens! We enjoy the deer - just want them to not be destructive.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS December 1st. YES!! Sherron has already decorated for Christmas - a kitchen table runner with salt and pepper shakers.

As the holidays come closer, each year we are glad to hear from you. Again this year we look forward to a quiet holiday. Our wish is that you have a wonderful new year.

Loren
and

Dear Willie,

I wish we could someday sit down and have a long talk, we have always looked forward to your letters.

I have been in the hospital twice this year, two surgeries, no fun, I hope to be feeling better soon.

Our Grand Daughter (Renee's daughter) received her P.H.D. in June, she is Working for a law Firm in Chicago. (Teresa's major was law.) she has been so busy in the law suit against the Tobacco Companies (Florida was their state). Teresa represented her company and they won the suit.

When I get to feeling better I will try to bring you up to date on our family. Love always

Tobacco suit fees rise to stratosphere

Plaintiffs' lawyers requesting and, getting, billions

By Barry Meier
NEW YORK TIMES NEWS SERVICE

A few months ago, Patrick Coughlin, a San Diego lawyer involved in a lawsuit against R.J. Reynolds, was thinking of asking for a $50 million fee for his firm, a sum that might strike some people as high for a case that the cigarette maker had settled for $10 million.

Then Coughlin heard that the five lawyers who represented Texas in its $17.3 billion settlement with tobacco companies this year planned to shoot for the moon before the arbitrators who were to determine both their fees and his. Alarm bells sounded, and within weeks Coughlin's fee request had exploded to $650 million. The Texas group, after all, was seeking $25 billion, and the pot of money for lawyers was limited.

"Rightly or wrongly," Coughlin acknowledged, "I decided to ask for hundreds of millions of dollars so that I won't be crushed by the amounts other people were asking for."

The extraordinary requests for payment by the Texas lawyers and Coughlin's firm are likely to become commonplace as plaintiffs' lawyers nationwide grab for fees from smoking-related settlements between the tobacco industry and the states.

Under the settlements, all lawyers will eventually receive the full amount of whatever fees they are awarded. But because the industry's payments of legal fees are limited to $500 million a year, those who win the biggest fees first will be paid long before lawyers with smaller, later awards.

In the end, what may distinguish Coughlin is not how much he requested, but his openness about the gamesmanship behind the stratospheric numbers as the lawyers fight for their share of what could total $20 billion or more in legal fees.

The lawsuit against the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., known as the Mangini suit because it was originally filed by a San Francisco lawyer, Janet Mangini, attacked the company's Joe Camel marketing campaign for aiming at teen-agers. In settling for $10 million, R.J. Reynolds, the tobacco division of RJR Nabisco, acknowledged that the suit played a significant role in its decision to drop the campaign. Industry documents that Coughlin and his colleagues helped uncover had shown that cigarette makers viewed teen-agers as young as 14 as "replacement" smokers.

To get a big slice of the fee pie, Coughlin's firm, Milberg Weiss Bershad Hynes & Lerach, gave arbitrators studies that claimed their work in helping to get rid of Joe Camel was worth $650 million. The reason: without the cartoon pitchman, a million fewer teen-agers would take up smoking over the next 25 years, saving society $60 billion in health care and other costs.

The law firm also developed a slick newsmagazine-style video, "Breaking the Camel's Back," that extolled its work in exposing big tobacco's "biggest secrets" and "deadliest lies." It also offered the arbitration panel testimonials about the case's impact from anti-smoking advocates, such as Dr. David Kessler, former commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

Depending on the amount of legal fees awarded, the final bill paid by tobacco companies and smokers could grow by billions. The Texas lawyers, for example, were awarded $3.3 billion by arbitrators last week, some $1 billion more than they would have received under their original contract with the state. One member of the three-member arbitration panel was chosen by the tobacco companies, another by the plaintiffs' lawyers and the third by common consent.

Some plaintiffs' lawyers who sued tobacco companies on behalf of states said they were outraged by the fees sought by their colleagues in the first round of arbitrations and were stunned by the actual awards announced last week.

Lawyers who represented Texas, Florida and Mississippi, the first three states to settle suits brought against the tobacco industry to recover health-care costs, were awarded $8.2 billion in fees.

The Texas lawyers, like Coughlin's firm, recalculated the value of their state's settlement for arbitrators. While Texas' $17.3 billion settlement with cigarette makers was projected over 25 years, the lawyers submitted a study by a Yale University professor predicting that over the next 50 years, Texas would receive $100 billion from tobacco companies under the deal.

As a result, the lawyers claimed they were due $25 billion.

Lawyers' fees over $8 billion

Award for tobacco lawsuit settlements in three states

By Katie Fairbank
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Attorneys who helped Texas, Mississippi and Florida settle their lawsuits against the tobacco industry will receive more than $8.1 billion in fees, an amount believed to be the largest ever awarded in the United States.

A divided three-member arbitration panel yesterday announced that five private attorneys in Texas will receive $3.3 billion. The 11-firm team that worked on the Florida case was awarded $3.43 billion, and the 13-lawyer Mississippi team was awarded $1.43 billion.

Renee's daughter Teresa represented her Law Fi in the Florida suit and was given a $4,000.00
bonus.

The lawyers will receive the payments over at least 10 years, but perhaps as long as 25 years.

The payments, decided by a national arbitration panel in Washington, are about 19 percent of the record $17.3 billion settlement in Texas, about 25 percent of the $13 billion settlement reached in Florida and about 35 percent of the $4.1 billion settlement reached in Mississippi.

The attorneys' fees were based on the value of the settlements, plus a "multiplier" based on the risk undertaken in pursuing the suits.

John Calhoun Wells, chairman of the arbitration panel, said that without the lawyers "there would be no multibillion-dollar settlements for the states to reimburse tobacco-related health expenses and provide funds for educational efforts to reduce youth smoking."

Charles B. Renfrew, the arbitrator appointed by the tobacco industry, dissented from the opinion.

"I am concerned that the sheer size of the fees awarded will raise questions as to the integrity of the proceedings here and undermine public confidence in . . . the legal system generally," he wrote.

"It sounds fair to me," said Pensacola, Fla., attorney Robert Kerrigan, who will get a 6 percent share of the Florida award, or more than $200 million.

Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. called the awards "obscene."

"When we reached a settlement with each of these three states, we agreed to pay 'reasonable compensation' to the lawyers representing ments over at least 10 years, but perhaps as long as 25 years.

"When we reached a settlement with each of these three states, we agreed to pay 'reasonable compensation' to the lawyers representing the states. The award of $8.1 billion defies anyone's definition of 'reasonable,'" the company said.

The three states and Minnesota reached settlements with the tobacco companies prior to a $206 billion deal made by the companies with the remaining 46 states.

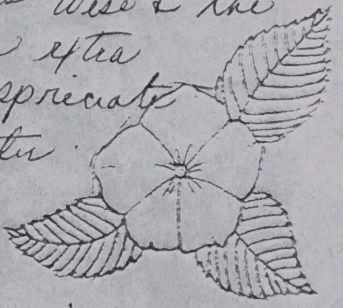
One Christmas night a Child was born
As winter in a frost was wrapped
And peeking through a moonlit drift
A tiny plant with snow was capped.

It saw the gifts that others brought
And struggled with each little stem
To sprout a blossom of its own
A special gift. . .a crimson gem!

The shepherds, kings and even beasts
Were dazzled with an awesome sight--
Impatiently the flowers bloomed
To brighten up the snow-wrapped night.

Today this greeting brings a gift--
"Impatiens" seeds (you may have guessed)
Just plant and water them with love
And soon with flowers you'll be blessed!

Thank you for your card & letter. Mother is doing Okay. She turned 90 in July 98. Still walking & able to wash dishes, Make her bed & Still go to work. This time of year is slower business wise & the ladies usually get a little extra time off. Which we really appreciate. Will try & write more later.



So sorry for your brother Lane Our prayers are with Aunt All of you.

Dear Willielee:

It sounds like you have had a very busy year. It takes quite a while to get resettled, all the decesion, and such.

You got back just in time for winter. We had such a lovely fall and a late one.

All of the family here have been very busy with work. My grandson is a senior this year. He is also working part time. I fill in as chief cook & bottle washer.

My daughter, son in law & their son went to Orlando, Florida in October. They went to Disney World and had a great time. I did not go but "baby" sat the dog.

I had both cataracts removed this summer. It helped but still am not allowed to drive.

We will have my other daughter & her family here Christmas eve. They have two daughters almost 4 & 8. That should be fun.

It is always nice to hear from you and what you are doing.
Do keep up the pace as long as you are able,

May you have a lovely Christmas
& Happy New Year,

Love,
Aunt Ruth

Blessings to You

Hi, Received your package + card today. Thank you very much for whatever it is! I'm glad it came before I got to your card because the PO # was different than the one I had written down.

Sat. Tim will be driving his 2 cousins home. He plans to work 5-6 days so with his activities w/ friends, I don't know how much we'll see him. His break is for 2 weeks. Did I tell you we finally were able to drive to Trinity to see the campus & dorm. They have a huge kitchen & the guys fix their own meals + of course try to save money. Tim has decided he should spend more on food next semester. After the volleyball season ended, he decided he was tired of announcing the games, so won't be doing that anymore. We were able to hear him do one while we were there. He has a desk in his boss's office + wants to decorate it. He is Assistant Sports Information Director + proud of it!

Matt flies in late Wed. evening + leaves early Sun. morning. He brought his gifts down when he drove down for Thanksgiving. The next day his girlfriend flew down and we had fun getting to know her better. Currently Matt is working at Gonzaga Univ.

And to all who love the Lord.

MERRY
CHRISTMAS

Love,
Jim + Debbie

in the financial aid department. So is one of his 2 roommates. And they're both taking a graduate course in Philosophy. Matt would like to earn his masters degree in it. Next semaster his boss is letting him squeeze in 2 classes. Since he works there, the classes are free! The 3 guys are renting a house now and enjoy having their own rooms and more space.

Jim's hours of wake + sleep have improved a lot now that he is on insulin. They still have a long way to go to get the diabetes under control. But he's thankful for the time change.

Lately I've been cutting out squares to make a patchwork quilt like all the ones Grandma Ham used to make.

I'm dreaming of a white Christmas but it doesn't appear to be very likely.

Have a wonderful holiday!

CHRISTMAS BLESSINGS

Notes on William Jenkins

HE AND HIS FAMILY WERE QUAKERS, AND LIKE OTHER POOR QUAKERS OF THAT TIME WERE MUCH PERSECUTED AND OF COURSE HAD NO OPPORTUNITY TO TAKE PART IN CIVIL AFFAIRS. HENCE THE ONLY RECORD TO BE FOUND OF THIS FAMILY IS IN THAT MADE BY THE DOVER MONTHLY MEETING OF THE QUAKERS. DEATH COULD BE 1785,1786 OR 1787

Prodigy member sent info stating:

In 1782 Wm Jenkins, yeoman of Lee NH, wrote a will which was proved in 1786. The will names sons Wm Jr, Joseph, Joh, Jonathan & James, and daus Hannah Hanson, Elizabeth Evans, & Phebe Hanson. Wm Jr & John were named executors, so probably oldest. By 1787 when the real estate was divided, John had purchased the rights of his brothers Wm Jr, Joseph & Jonathan, and James & John (at least) were still living.

WILL:

(1787) Est. Lee yeoman decd. testate. (2/210-215) Will. Drawn 5/16/1782, Legatees: Sons - William Jr, Joseph, John, Jonathan & James; Daus. - Hannah Hanson, Elizabeth Evans & Phebe Hanson.

Adms.: sons William Jr. & John.

His sig. Witnesses: Samuel Langley, Job Runals Jr & Hercules Mooney.

Proved 2/22/1786. (2/343-345) Inv. Comm.Zeaccheus Clough & Samuel Mathes.

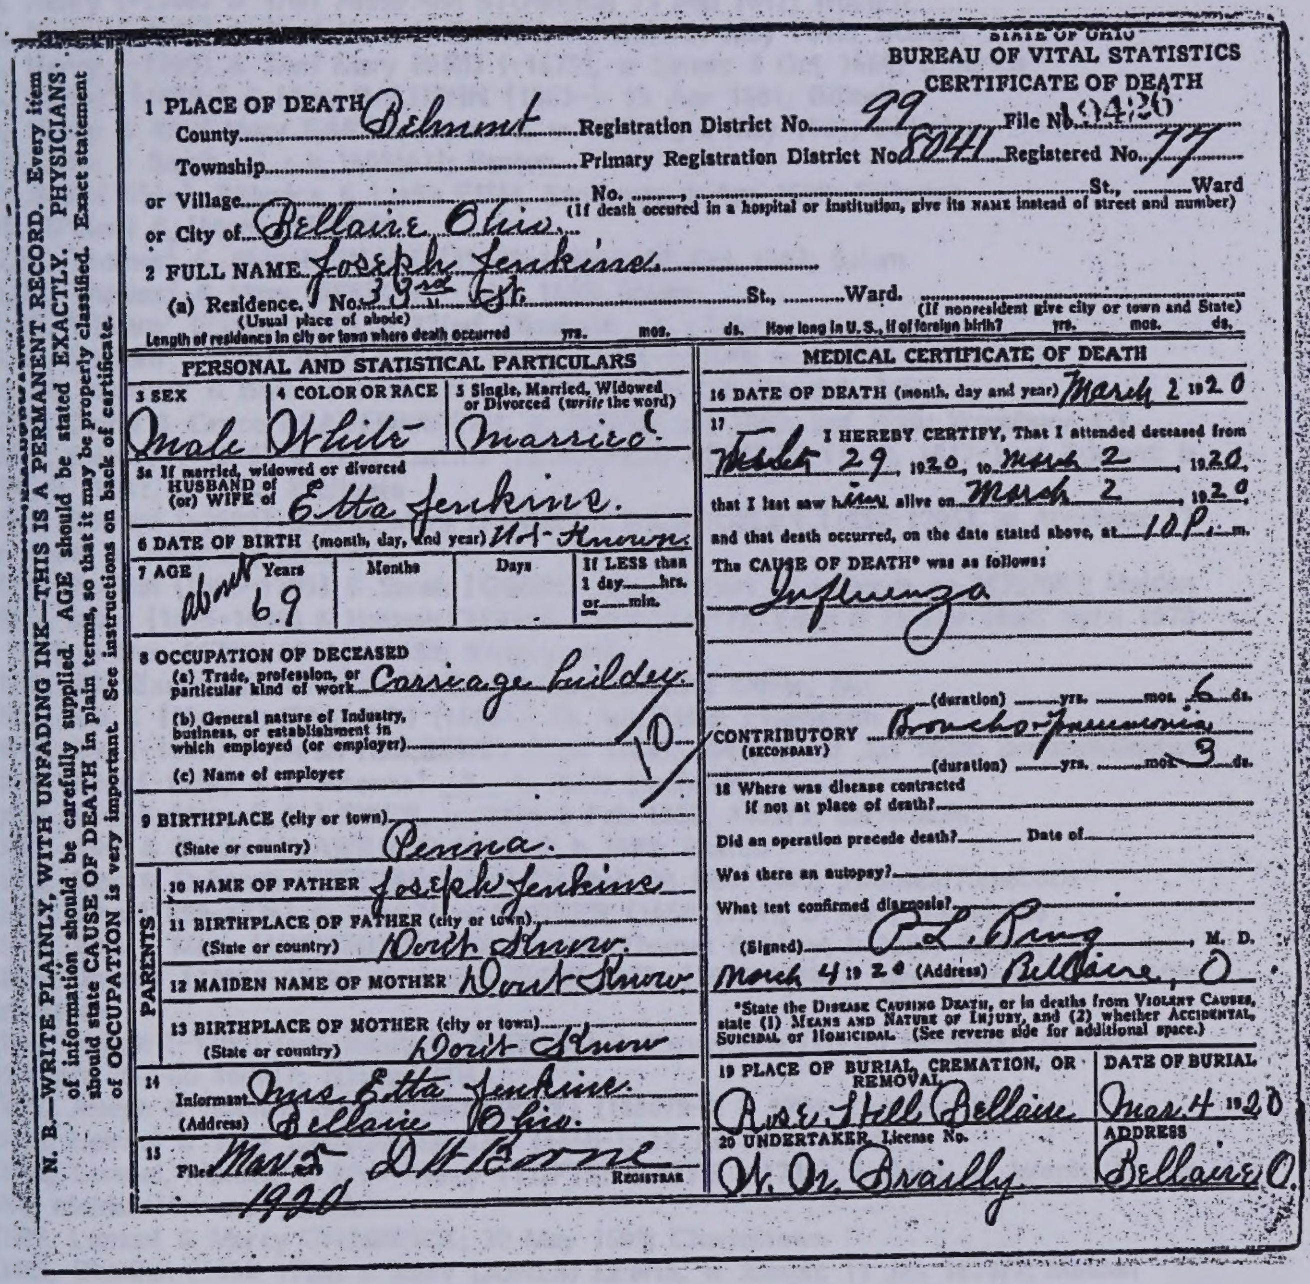
Apraised: 8/22/1787. Value: L2224..3..11. Allowed: 8/22/1787. (4/78)

Div. Comm.: Samuel Mathes, Robert Thompson, Ebenezer Thompson, Hunkin Dame & another (unnamed).

To divide the real est. among his children, agreeable to his will.

Divisees: James Jenkins; John Jenkins, who had purchased the rights of his bros. William Jr., Joseph & Jonathan. Allowed: 9/2/1793.

He refused to "sign the test" association test in November 1776, with his son, William, Joseph Cartland, etc. because they were quakers.



N. B.—WRITE PLAINLY, WITH UNFADING INK—THIS IS A PERMANENT RECORD. Every item of information should be carefully supplied. AGE should be stated EXACTLY. PHYSICIANS should state CAUSE OF DEATH in plain terms, so that it may be properly classified. Exact statement of OCCUPATION is very important. See instructions on back of certificate.

Descendants of Joseph Sanford Jenkins

Generation 1

1. Joseph Sanford^{1} Jenkins was born on 14 Oct 1826 in SC. He died on 26 May 1893 in Chickasaw Indian Nation, Marlow, OK. He married (1) Louisa Taylor, daughter of Taylor on 28 Feb 1872 in Cass Co, TX. She was born in 1838 in MS. She died in Chickasaw Indian Nation, Marlow, OK. He married (2) Amanda Lucinda Taylor, daughter of Taylor in 1845 in MS. She was born in 1825 in MS. She died in Jan 1867 in Dalton, Cass Co, TX.

Notes for Joseph Sanford Jenkins:
Family stories indicates the ancestors of Joseph Sanford Jenkins moved to the United States from Wales, United Kingdom. Jenkins families in that area were numerous. Jenkins is one of many forms of names indicating Johnson. It is derived from two ancient names meaning Little John. The name is identified with pioneer settlements of Maine and New Hampshire. While no family connections with Jenkins of this area have yet been established, an old dictionary belonging to William S. Jenkins, son of Joseph Sanford Jenkins, has been identified with a book store in Hinsdale, New Hampshire. Family tradition holds that the Jenkins were from Wales, and that they originally were named McJenkins or MacJenkins. A number of MacJinkins families were living in South Carolina during the early 1800s. A T. C. McJinkins and wife, ages 35 and 33 respectively, along with one male child, is listed in the 1890 Census Roll of the Chickasaw Nation, Indian Territory, OK. This is thought to be a nephew of Joseph Sanford.
Prior to 1860, Joseph Sanford moved his family into Texas on a flatboat - landing at Jefferson's Landing, Jefferson, Marion County, Texas. Joseph freighted supplies for a time from Jefferson's Landing to Atlanta in Northeast Cass County, possibly before moving to the Dalton area. Apparently Joseph's family remained in the Dalton area during the Civil War. Family tradition indicates that Joseph served as a spy for the Confederate Forces during the Civil War. No information has been discovered to date indicating when, where and with what units he might have served.
Family tradition holds that although Joseph Sanford was only 19 when he married Lucinda, he was said to have married and fathered 2 daughters in MS before marrying Lucinda. A trip away from Cass County, Texas probably occurred about early 1870, just prior to the 1870 Cass County, Texas US Census, and soon after the death of Joseph Sanford's second wife, Lucinda Taylor. The trip was to MS, where daughters of Joseph Sanford by his first marriage are believed to have lived at that time. Joseph Sanford and the family were traveling across Arkansas by wagon. Times were hard the family had to stop for awhile to earn money to buy supplies for the rest of the trip. The store owner, noticing Joseph Asa had no shoes, offered to keep and raise him as his own son, promising to see he got a good education. Joseph Sanford refused, however, and they eventually completed their trip back to Cass County, Texas.
Joseph Sanford is believed to have moved to Marlow, Chickasaw Nation Indian Territory (now Stephens County), Oklahoma about 1890. Joseph said he loaded all of his possessions into two covered wagons for the move. This is most likely when the Red River crossing photographs was taken. It took him sixteen days to make the trip from Dalton, Texas, to Healdton, Indian Territory. Two of Joseph's brother-in-laws are believed to have been living in Healdton at that time. One is believed to have been Joseph Benjamin Christian and his wife Catherine Smith, sister of Hester Ann. The other is believed to have been Nelson Winter and his wife Margaret Catherine Jenkins, Joseph's sister. Joseph's family apparently remained in Healdton only for a short time. He said that he was not satisfied to make his home there, so he soon moved his family on to Marlow, where he leased land and settled. According to Joseph, Marlow was first named Marlow Grove. It was here where the Marlow brothers, desperados from Texas, settled and built a large corral. The Chisholm cattle trail just happened to pass this way. When a cattle herd passed on the way to Kansas City, the Marlow brothers would try to have the drovers pen their cattle for a charge. If the cattlemen didn't, the Marlow brothers would stampede the herd at night. Then later on they would gather the strays and take them to Fort Sill where they were sold for the Indians.
Joseph passed away while living there on May 26, 1893, and was buried in the Marlow cemetery.

Joseph Sanford Jenkins had the following child:

Notes for Louisa Taylor:

Lousia was a sister of Joseph Sanford's first wife Lucinda Amanda Taylor. Both were born in MS, and their mother was reportedly born in Ireland. I cannot find details to corroborate this. But according to other family traditions, Louisa and her first husband, Joseph Benjamin Franklin (Frank) Christian lived on a farm neighbouring the farm of Joseph Sanford Jenkins in Cass County, Texas Louisia married Jenkins, but the two continued to maintain their separate neighboring farms in Cass County, Texas, until the combined family moved about 1890 to Indian Territory, finally settling in Marlow, Chickasaw Nation (later Stephens County, Oklahoma).

Notes on Stephen Jenkins

July 18, 1694: Abenaki Chief Abomazine, almost 300 Penobscot warriors, and few French attack the settlement today along the south side of the Oyster River, at modern-day Durham, New Hampshire. The Indians are trying to sneak into the village when their presence in discovered. Some settlers escape, others retreat to fortified homes. 104 settlers will be killed and 27 will be taken hostage before the Indians withdraw. Four months later, Abomazine will approach the fort at Pemaquid, under a white flag. He will be seized by the garrison for his part in the attack.

BACKGROUND:

Bomazeen

An Indian (Abenaki) chief who controlled the Indian raids at Oyster River and surrounding area. He was a fearless warrior who killed many of the early settlers in 1694. He was captured and sent to Boston where was put on trial. Several witnesses of the massacre spoke against him. Bomazeen escaped with his life at the trial, but was later slain in an attack on the Norridgewock's village in 1724. Oyster River Massacre by Thomas Z.

At dawn on July 18, 1694, Chief Bomazeen's tribal band waged an attack on the residents of Durham, N.H. This was known as "The Oyster River Massacre." The raiding party consisted of 140 Indians and 14 Frenchmen. Bomazeen was the chief that controlled the Indian raids. The Indians took 3 garrisons that were deserted and not defended, killed and carried away 94 persons and burnt 13 houses.

The fight began at "Newtown", north to Turtle Pond and extending to the upper part of Oyster River and towards Wheelwright's Pond. Families killed, captured and homes burned were Dean, Donis, Jenkins, and Burnhams.

wikipedia:

During King William's War, on July 18, 1694 "Oyster River" was attacked in the Oyster River Massacre by French career soldier Sebastien de Villieu with about 250 Abenaki Indians under command of their sagamore, Bomazeen. In all, 45 inhabitants were killed and 49 taken captive, with half the dwellings, including 5 garrisons, burned to the ground. Crops were destroyed and livestock killed, causing famine and destitution for survivors.

Oyster River Raid - Aftermath and Conclusion

Villieu, the man who complained that he was dying of hunger on the eve of the Oyster River raid, did not accompany the war-party sent inst Groton. [132]Nor did he return to Fort Nashwaak. Upon questioning the captives taken Oyster River, Villieu learned of a projected attackk on Quebec. Using this as a pretext to report directly to Frontenac, Villieu bypassed Villebon and proceeded straight to Quebec. He arrived there on August 22 to find that Frontenac in Montreal. Without delay, Villieu left Quebec arriving at Montreal four days later. [133]Villieu told Frontenac his version of the raid, which was later to form the basis of his official report. The Abenaki were greatly insulted by Villieu's behavior. As was their custom, they dispatchedseveral messengers to Frontenac to "give utterance to the death cries of the enemy." [134]Although left about the same time, Villieu quickly out distanced the messengers in his drive to reach Frontenac first. This was a major insult to the kaki, particularly the Kennebecs, who rightfully felt that the honor belonged to them.

When Frontenac questioned the Abenaki about Villieu's conduct while with the war-party, replied "that although they had been together in the enemy's country, they had never been united in action." [135]From the beginning, the Abenaki had a plan of action, a plan that Villieu did not agree with. Most likely, the numerous councils to which Villieu refers were his attempts at promoting a target of his choosing. Villieu may have favored an attack on Pemaquid, accounting for his scouting mission to that post. When the Indians failed to adopt his plan, Villieu reported that nothing had been decided. Eventually, Villieu gave up and the Indians' plan prevailed.

Despite the attack not being executed to perfection, the raid was considered a great success. In August, Villebon confided in his journal that "the blow struck was important, because it will put an end to the negotiations which have been going on, and leave no chance for their renewal." [136]The loss of Abenaki allegiance reflected by the Treaty of Pemaquid had placed the French in a very dire military position. The French knew that a successful attack was the best way to maintain their fragile alliance with the Abenaki. The success of the attack on Oyster River accomplished this very important strategic objective. Herman contradicted his own conclusion in this regard, "But looking at the events as the French did from their vantage point, the operation at Oyster River was a success." [137]

For the Abenaki, the events surrounding the Oyster River Massacre brought a political crisis. The signing of the Treaty of Pemaquid had threatened traditional tribal methods of reaching consensus. [138]In signing the treaty, the thirteen sagamores, whether knowingly or not, appeared to speak for all of the Eastern Indians. This insulted the chiefs who had not signed the treaty, and in some cases provoked considerable ire. A successful raid was necessary in order to protect their sovereignty.

Madockawando's self-interest, in his sale of tribal land, seriously undermined the prestige of the older sachems, particularly those among the Penobscot. [139]This allowed the younger chiefs among the Kennebecs, like Bomazeen, to come to power. Their plan, discussed in April at Pentagoet, was carried out at Oyster River in July.

For the English, the attack on Oyster River was devastating. Several letters written after the attack attest to the turmoil it created. Militia Captain Thomas Packer wrote from Portsmouth on the day of the attack: "Just now arrived a post from Oyster River. The Indians have destroyed the place killed & burned all they could. Nere [a one]have Escaped and are too badly wounded doe not know but they be all over our frontiers." [140]New Hampshire Lieutenant Governor John Usher wrote to Governor Phips: "we fear Severall other . . . Towns in the province are besett." [141]Writing directly of Oyster River, Usher reported, "judge the whole place is cutt off." [142]In Massachusetts, a delegation on its way to New York for a council with the Iroquois was called back. William Stoughton, of the Massachusetts Council, advised Governor Fletcher of New York: "the present circumstances of this Province by the fresh breaking out of the Indians . . . are such as cannot admit of any souldiers to be sent from home, the Province of New Hampshire lying at this time bleeding." [143]

Nowhere was the turmoil greater than at Oyster River. The pre-dawn attack caught the settlers of the plantation unprepared. Just two days earlier, Captain John Woodman had assembled the people of the settlement, notifying them of the Treaty of Pemaquid. [144]As a result, the people had returned to their homes and disbanded the night watch. By the time the attackers withdrew, forty-five people lay dead with another forty-nine taken captive. [145]Half of the dwellings lay in charred ruins. The attackers butchered most of the livestock and burned many crops. Many of the wounded were evacuated to Portsmouth. Several of the survivors removed to Massachusetts. [146]

In 1982, historian Neal Salisbury wrote of Parkman's works: "aside from a romantic style which some readers still - a century later - find entertaining, their chief value is in orienting the beginner chronologically and geographically. As a colonial history and, particularly, as Indian ethnohistory, they are unreliable." [147]Parkman lived during the time before modern Indian ethnohistory came into being. As a result, he fell prey to the common prejudice of the era and could not see the Indians as equals. Parkman wrote about the Oyster River Massacre as part of a much larger work. Consequently, he consulted a narrow range of sources, relying on the report of the inept Villieu. In doing so, Parkman may have discounted evidence that proved compatible with Villieu's story. The action Villieu following the attack on Oyster River were not those of a man dying of hunger. Nor, were the younger warriors and chiefs dissuaded from following through with their original plan by Villieu's hunger plea.

Indian ethnohistory had yet to become popular when Herman was writing his thesis in 1960s. Although Herman had access to a much larger range of sources, he and Parkman labored under similar limitations. Herman also failed see that the Abenaki operated on their own initiative. He overlooked the connection between Mather's statement concerning the attack be talked of in Quebec two months before it happened and the council held at Pentagoet in April. This attack was clearly not, "initiated on the spur of the moment." [148]Herman did not recognized Hector's deposition as confirmation of the Abenaki attack plan. Even when consulting writings of Mather, Villebon, Thury, and Hector, Herman continually deferred to Parkman and Villieu. He relied on Villieu's story without taking the record concerning his character into account. Villieu did not lead the war-party, although he wanted Frontenac to think so. Even today historians often point to Parkman as the definitive authority of the colonial time period. Herman may have been reluctant to reach a conclusion that ran contrary to Parkman's opinion.

The people of Oyster River Plantation were not sacrificed on the altar of fate. Their deaths reflected the accomplishment of a very real strategic objective. When the Abenaki are accepted as a sovereign people, a more accurate picture the Oyster River Massacre emerges. The Abenaki went to war in order to protect their land and their way of life. The signing of the Treaty of Pemaquid, by a small group of disaffected chiefs, demanded action from both the French and Native Americans. The attack on Oyster River was the successful culmination of their joint action. By carefully analyzing the primary sources, within the framework established by modern Indian ethnohistory, we gain a fuller understanding of the Oyster River Massacre. The true story is no less compelling than the legend.

Stephen Jenkins was killed in the Oyster River Massacre in 1694, his wife, Anne, was carried off to Canada with three children. She later escaped and testified at Chief Bomazeen's trial about the incident, and stated that Stephen Jenkins' grandmother was killed along side him in the 1695 massacre.Recently found 'administration on the estate of Stephen Jenkins of Oyster River, who was killed by the Indians and left several small children, was granted to his brother, Jabez Jenkins of Kittery, Maine.' and 'Bomazeen the Indian Chief that controlled the Indian raids at Oyster River and surrounding area. He was a fearless warrior who killed many of the early settlers in 1694. He was captured and sent to Boston where was put on trial. Several witnesses of the massacre spoke against him. Bomazeen escaped with his life at the trial, but was later slain in an attack on the Norridgewock's village in 1724.'Bomazeen died that August day in 1724 as he rushed to warn the Norridgewock mission that the English troops, led by Captain Jeremiah Moulton, Captain Johnson Harmon, Captain John Brown and Captain Joseph Bean were on their way to destroy them. Captain Moulton had tried before, but today he would not fail. Chief Bomazeen perished in a hail of gunfire as he attempted to cross the Kennebec River. This beautiful spot in the river is known today as Bomazeen Rips.We also know that Chief Bomazeen was at the brutal massacre of York, Maine. And in the oddest twist of fate, this is the very place where a five year old Jerimiah Moulton was taken hostage by the Indians and marched along with 100 other pilgrims up the Kennebec River to Norridgewock. Little Jeremiah was later released in an instance of gratitude to the English for releasing some Indian hostages. Who would have guessed that years later Jeremiah Moulton now Captain Moulton would return to Norridgewock to exact his revenge.Chief Bomazeen was taken hostage in an act of treachery by the English in the 1696 and held in a brutal Boston prison on Deer Island. It was here, while starved, beaten and emaciated that he is said to have told his English captors (according to clergyman Cotton Mather) that his French teachers (the Jesuit Father Sebastian Rale) had instructed the Indians that "Jesus Christ was of the French Nation and that his mother, the Virgin Mary, was a French woman: that the English had been his murders: that he rose and went to heaven, and that all who would gain his favor must revenge his quarrel upon the English as much as possible.Many argue that Chief Bomazeen never spoke these words, but none the less, the English belief that the French friars were active in inciting the Indians to commit depredations upon the English settlers led the General Court of Massachusetts to pass an act to eject them entirely from the colony.

Mr. B. Folsom Jenkins

Dear "Folsom Jenkins",

Since this is the name I remember your being called, rather than "second cousin", as Paul Dingwell suggests in his letter to me about you, I'll use it and let you know something I remember.

This is my 66th birthday, and I am giving myself a present of remembering some very fond days when I was young.

In the 1920's, my grandfather died, but I have recollections of him that are precious, since I lived with him and my grandmother while my father was at Fort Devons as a war correspondent. Later, my father would drive with his mother, and take me to Portsmouth, N.H. to visit Annie Ayers and her mother Ella, who was my grandfather's sister, in their lovely home. They talked of the business my grandfather had had in Manchester in a Dry Goods Dept. and days they had known when they were younger. The conversation I do recall so vividly was about Hattie-Belle, and her son, Folsom Jenkins. His Navy career was the topic of conversation, and with pride always. If I met Hattie-Belle, I don't have a mental picture of her, but I do have a real picture of Aunt Annie and Ella. Do you remember ever meeting my grandmother, whom I guess would have been yourAunt Edith? She always called my grandfather Edwin, though his name was John Edwin. If you can recall any of the past now that would add to my thoughts, it would be nice to hear from you and you can fill in the gaps I have in the conversations about you. Did you grow up and start your navy education at Portsmouth, or what did develop your career? Who was Wentworth Ayers? I just remember the name.

My father was Charles Emerson Folsom, and I had a brother, Charles, Jr. who loved the sea and had a large sail boat. Unfortunately he was accidentally drowned when he was washed overboard in a storm near Plum Island when he was taking the boat from Rockport to Newburyport to store it for the winter of 1972.

I do hope to hear from you, and that I have stirred up fond memories.

With best regards, Janet Folsom Seymour

Janet

To begin your Ancestral Record, turn to page 7 and there, in the lowest left hand square—top line—write (if a married man) your own christian name.

If a single man or woman, write therein the christian name of your father.

If a married woman, write therein the christian name of your husband, while the surname in each case is to be written in the vignette at top and center of the page.

II

Write the date of birth and locality on line indicated in the square; and to the right of the name add the date and place of marriage; and still farther to the right in the upper line of the square (on page 39) you will write the full maiden name of the wife.

III

Now add the names and dates of the birth of the children in space between and below (on page 7) and you have a generation recorded. It is well to complete page 7 as far as possible before attempting any of the others.

IV

Now proceed to fill the left hand square above the first one already written in. Herein write the christian name of his father with birth, death, locality; when and where married; and then, over to the right as before, the full maiden name of his wife (on page 23).

Please note here that as we are recording ancestors only, no wife's name is to appear in any square except she be the mother of the succeeding generation and your own ancestress. All the children are to be recorded in the space designed for them and if, of several mothers, their names written at the head of each group; but remember that only your maternal occupies the square opposite your paternal. Proceed thus with page 7 upward from square to square, generation to generation till as far as possible the page is made complete and with all details supplied. The Washington chart herewith will well illustrate the method of the page.

You will now perceive that to every maternal is devoted a separate page of the book on which to carry back her individual ancestry in the same way as on page 7. Each page arranged for the surname at the top; and with a continuation of cuttings to provide for other maternals farther back.

Proceed now to fill the first maternal page (39), that of your wife or your mother, according as you have begun your book. After recording her birth in square as indicated. write in the lowest left hand square of page 39, the christian name of her father, and add his surname at top and center of that page. Then as before add his birth and marriage; and over to the right, through the cutting in page, the full maiden name of his wife. Their children will appear on page 39 and will include the name repeated of that daughter in whom you are especially interested.

With this beginning one needs but little additional instruction in the use of the book other than the suggestions noted in detail therein.

VI

The Supplement for attachment to the top of each page where required for a record of the more remote ancestors will be found very useful, though sometimes it may be as well, where only one or two generations are to be recorded, to employ the upper division of the left hand page. Space there is also afforded for a brief account of the early origin of the family and other interesting matter.

Be sure and use freely the Appendix at the back of the book. Its sections will be of service for the record of distant maternal lines, which, named in one or other of the upper right hand squares of the book, must by reference be continued here.

Note also that a maternal name appearing in a square thus and referred back, would then be written under the head of the "Children" in the lowest space.

☞The photographic features of the book deserve special mention. No other ancestral record provides in any way for such an opportunity. And yet, we feel free to say, that if there is a branch of ancestral study more fascinating, it lies here in the gathering of ancestral pictures of persons, homesteads, gravestones, coats of arms, historic scenes, etc., and their preservation as provided for. Oil paintings, silhouettes, daguerreotypes, photographs, likenesses of any kind can be reduced or enlarged to uniform size at very small expense, and unmounted, inserted herein. Space for photographs of the collateral lines with notes is provided in the continued divisions of the left hand pages. And as the faces, etc., of each generation are preserved, no more valuable heir-loom can be found in any family. We are pleased to learn that many Records are used in this way for a Pictorial Family History.

Do not fail to make use of the Index page and there gather together for ready reference all the surnames found in the book.

In proof of your recorded statements add the references in every case. A place is provided. It will make your work more valuable and authoritative.

Use photographers' paste only and good ink always.

The writer, appreciating the popular favor in which the Record is held and desirous of making it of the greatest practical benefit to its possessors, would be pleased to hear from anyone seeking further explanation.

ALL Christian faith and hope for the future emanate from the resurrection.

The beauty of the twenty-third psalm has charmed more grief to rest than all the philosophy of the world.

This record booklet thus becomes a chronicle of hope, peace and comfort. The pages bearing passages from David's masterpiece are illustrated in copper plate etchings of the Holy Land.

Dear Folsom:

I finally got around to copying the family tree for you. As you can see, it is very one-sided. To get what I had on my grandmothers family in I had to start with my grandparents. I know very little about my grandfather. He died when I was 2 years old. I don't remember him at all. The grand uncles were dead before I was born, so I do not remember their first names.

After Aunt Louise and Aunt Carrie Hildebrand (a family friend) died I didn't get much more information, so the later generations of the other branches are incomplete, but it is probably more than you are interested in anyway.

We have 3 sets of twins.

Betty and Jacob Gade.- Betty and

Anna Helbing - and Jim Marrow's 4 year old Emi and Mari.

In my mother's pictures there was a picture of identical twin girls and a boy. The photographic studio was Kansas City, so I imagine they were grandchildren of my grandfather's niece Tillie. One of my old customers said that the tendency to identical twins was not inherited. She was married to one. My mother said the ~~twins~~ twins in her family ran 3 generations and skipped 3, but it only skipped 2 when Jim and Nancy's twins were born.

Marie wrote that John and Matthew were both graduating this year. Please give them my congratulations and best wishes.

Love

Rodena

P.S. Bill Noack Jr. was the one who looked up the Gade family tree. His father was stationed in Germany in the army.

THE CREED.

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth:

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord: Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary: Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell; The third day he rose again from the dead: He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty: From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost: The holy Catholic Church; The Communion of Saints: The Forgiveness of sins: The Resurrection of the body: And the Life everlasting. Amen.

THE LORD'S PRAYER.

OUR Father, who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, On earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, But deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS.

GOD spake these words, and said:

I. I am the Lord thy God; thou shalt have none other gods but me.

II. Thou shalt not make to thyself any graven image, nor the likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth; thou shalt not bow down to them, nor worship them; for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, and visit the sins of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; and show mercy unto thousands in them that love me and keep my commandments.

III. Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless, that taketh his Name in vain.

IV. Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath-day. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all that thou hast to do; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God. In it thou shalt do no manner of work; thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, thy cattle, and the stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it.

V. Honour thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

VI. Thou shalt do no murder.

VII. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

VIII. Thou shalt not steal.

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

X. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his servant, nor his maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is his.

Dear Es: This is a Xerox copy of Harriet's last letter to me.

July 3, 1980

Dear Mrs. Snyder—

Today I took your Bigger family documents in to the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania—you will remember that it is located on Bigelow Blvd. next door to the 20th Century Club. I do quite a bit of research there and am well-acquainted with the librarian-genealogist and the archivist--also Bill Trimble, the editor of their quarterly, The Western Pennsylvania Historical Magazine. They have printed a couple of my articles and I'm currently working on one about U.S. Grant and his Washington County friends which I will submit in two or three months.

Anyway, I showed the Bigger volume to the librarian and she fairly pounced on it—she was this very morning answering a query

(in Pittsburgh)

Harriet Branton is the daughter of my very dear friend, Harriet Evans, and married to Clarence Branton, at present head of the English dept. at W and J. Walt's old Alma Mater. She is engaged in much research on Washington County, Pa., and its original settlers. When Harriet sent me one of her published articles, I felt she was the very one most likely to be interested in what (over) a large part our Bigger Family played in that early history. So I contacted her and ended up sending her copies of "Inglenook Memories" and "American Primitive"!

I'll give you a lot more about this in our next phone conversation — soon Its almost impossible for me to write any more, as my vision has deteriorated so in the last few months.

researchers, so I felt that it was all right to let them make the copy. And there certainly is a great deal of interest in your family. Our local library would also like to make a copy if you have no objection. They do this at no charge for anyone--they are that pleased to have the papers in the genealogical collections.

I might suggest that if you haven't decided what to do about the original papers, the Historical Society in Pittsburgh would be very pleased to have them. You can be sure that they would be properly cared for, and would be available to those interested in the Bigger family. Mother gave them a collection of letters last year - a cousin of ours named Wallace who lived to be over 100 years of age and wrote interesting letters to mother and others about her family in the Pittsburgh of the mid-19th century.

Anyway it is a very professional outfit which has been around for a number of years.

We have had a very busy spring— the graduation was quite a success, Mary received all kinds of honors and we were so pleased. She worked hard, too! She is set to enter Emory U. Medical School in Atlanta this September.

Mother is at the moment in St. Louis. I believe she returns to D.C. next Monday. She enjoys traveling these days, and may yet go to Scotland this summer.

I'm sorry to have been so long in writing about your family papers—I rather expected that they would be received with enthusiasm—and they certainly have been!

Our best wishes to you and Mr. Snyder.

Sincerely,
Harriet Branton

Dear Cousin Esther:

I want you to know that we have sent in Mother's application for membership in the D. A. R., through Thomas Bigger. Whether anything will come of it I don't know, but it was fun doing it. There is only one record of Thomas Bigger during the war years: Pennsylvania Archives, Sixth Series, Vol. II, p. 132 "A Return of/Capt. Reed's Comp. of Militia on the Heads of Racoon & Miller's Run," under which Thomas Bigger is listed in the 4th Class. He is also mentioned on p. 144 as a private in the 4th Class "A Return 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th Classes Capt'n Davd. Reed Compy 4th Battn. W. County Militia Ordered to Rendevouze May 14th 1782." (The spelling in these old records is part of their charm.) Now I believe I saw somewhere that David Reed was one of the men who stood up to Washington in that matter of the land--I think it was in your father's Ingle Nook Memories. (Yes, on page 25, quoting from Washington's Diary, September 20, 1784: "Dined at David Reed's, after which Mr. James Scott and Squire Reed began to inquire whether I would part with the land...")

These things all seem so real when you come across familiar names unexpectedly! In the Pennsylvania Archives, Series V, Vol I, p. 133, I discovered under "Recruits Raised by Capt. Robert Boyd for Coll. at 15th May, 1758 for the Penna. Regiment" the name Samuel Bigger, Weaver, 5 ft. 7", born Ireland, Inlisted (I follow their spelling) Chester, 10th May, age 25, description: "well made." Also on the 13th of May, Chester, a William Bigger enlisted, also weaver from Ireland, aged 25, "strong and well built"--and do you know who he was? A cousin perhaps? A twin who died and was never again heard of? Or could there have been a brother we do not know about?

I enjoyed the references to the Biggers in Crumrine's History of Washington County, and used them to establish the line, which of course you have to do, and got notarized statements of grave markers at Robinson and Candor, and pictures of the graves. Most of all I enjoyed your father's Ingle Nook Memories, which are by far the finest we have of any branch of the family. Have almost come to blows with Mrs. Leggo over the Fort Dillow incident, she basing her contentions I'm sure on Crumrine's History which wasn't written till 1882, I basing mine on firmer foundations! (She was Jean Armour and her mother was a Witherspoon.) I hope someone has put your father's history in the Washington County Historical Society, for it is something to be proud of. Did you know that extra copies had been made for one of the reunions not long ago? I heard this from Mary Bigger. You should have them for your grandchildren, just in case.

Our trip to Britain last Spring was perfect. Mother had not been well before we started and we were not sure how things would be, but took our courage in our hands and started forth. We loved the Britannic, so wide that it looks like a teakettle on the water, but less given to side-roll than some of the sleeker ships. When I tell you that Mother was sitting in the dining-room eating hotcakes when a sudden dip of the ship caused the dishes on a nearby table to slide to the floor with a crash (much to the delight of all the passengers!) you will know that she is a good sailor. At Liverpool, a little Ford Consul was waiting for us at the pier. Daddy's first experience with left-side driving was to take us through the Mersey Tunnel, over two miles long, which he did beautifully, and in no time at all we were in Chester, that wonderful old town with medieval walls, old timbered houses, the River Dee. From there we went to North Wales which we simply loved, attended church in a small town where the service was conducted entirely in Welsh, the minister being a very dramatic young man, waving his arms, blinking his eyes, shouting, then dropping to a whisper,--so different from the reserve and understatement of the British we felt we were indeed among a different race. Hard to imagine the Donaldsons being a bit Welsh.

The Ford Consul was a sweet little car to drive. Mother saw a great deal from it and was able to save her legs for the castles, cathedrals and other high-spots. By being ahead of the tourist rush we could stop at charming village inns at the last minute which would have otherwise been booked solidly in advance, so our trip was flexible. We saw much of England and Scotland before turning our car in at Glasgow, its home-garage, and taking a through train down to London where we had ten days before sailing home on the Elizabeth.

Daddy is as active as ever. He was recently made president of the board of the American Sunday School Union, an organization he has always admired. He is busy with little projects in his workshop in the cellar. (We try to think of things for him to make. He has just made me a typewriter-stand.) And of course he is very busy at the office. John, too, is a very busy person. He likes being a lawyer and he and Daddy are very congenial. Mother has to take things a little more easily but is by no means an invalid. She was not too well early in the Fall, but a change of medicine has helped her. She is enjoying a piece of needlepoint designed by the Royal School of Needlework in London that did all Queen Mary's things, no more expensive than over here and far more lovely, such wonderful wools and ranges of color.

And so we are settling down for the winter. We had our coldest weather this week, 22°, and have plenty of fire-wood thanks to Hurricane Hazel which lashed through here with 95-mile-an-hour winds, caused floods in the vicinity of Pittsburgh and then roared on up to Canada, where, still unabated, it caused havoc in the vicinity of Toronto. What this did to electricity and 'phone I leave to your imagination! One of our friends lost 25 trees, completely uprooted. But people were wonderful about moving debris from the roads in front of their houses so that traffic could keep moving, it was surprising how few lives were lost everything considered, and things were soon back to normal. Daddy, ever optimistic, called it nature's way of pruning the trees.

We hope you will have all your family at Christmas, that Folsom will be home with you, for that means so much. Feel sure Tommy is glad of his choice of a college, for he wouldn't trade his friends for any other, and it is a wonderful college. Our love to you across the miles....

George Washington Is No Hero In My Book

By Mary Bigger McKune

GEORGE WASHINGTON was not exactly a hero—at least, our family didn't think so. Growing up on a farm in Washington County, just 25 miles west of Pittsburgh, my brother and sisters and I had mixed emotions about George.

Of course, we learned from the history books in our one-room schoolhouse at Murdocksville that George Washington was "the Father of Our Country" and that as a boy he told the truth—on one occasion, anyhow. But we felt there was a flaw in his character somewhere. After all, he had taken our land away from us. Well, he took it from our great, great, grandfather—but we resented it, just the same.

The story, told to us as we gathered around the fireside on winter evenings, began more than 200 years ago. It was in 1773 that Thomas Bigger threw his sickle as far as he could at the end of the harvest season in Ireland, saying that was the last wheat he would ever reap for King George! Weary of the Irish landlords' oppression, Thomas set sail with Elizabeth, his bride of a few months, for to the home of another brother in the area now known as McKeesport. Leaving his wife there, Thomas set out on a borrowed horse to search for land on which to build a home.

Riding westward, he came to a hillside above the site on which now stands a 128-year-old house, presently owned and occupied by a fifth generation Thomas Bigger and his wife Elizabeth. The soil which the horses' hooves turned up was rich. Thomas saw below him what appeared to be an opening in the forest. When he reached the opening, he found that someone had abandoned an unroofed cabin there.

Thomas returned to his brother's home and reported what he had found. He and Elizabeth decided on the site of this crude cabin overlooking Raccoon Creek as their future home, and to it they came. Here they worked for several years to carve out of the wilderness the farm which has been the home of the Bigger family ever since—with the exception of one seven-year period. It was this period that led to the dispute with George Washington.

Having been warned of the approach of a band of warring Inand building a new home for himself and his family. This labor lasted for seven years—seven lost years, as it turned out.

Mill Near Ft. Pitt

The Revolutionary War had come to an end by this time, and George Washington was turning his attention to his own business interests. Having property west of the Alleghenies, he visited first the site of a mill he owned near Ft. Pitt. Then, according to Washington's diary, he set out on Sept. 18, 1784, for Miller's Run. There he visited the homes of Thomas Bigger and his neighbors—all of them living on a tract totaling nearly 3,000 acres, which Washington claimed as his own. The settlers, not wishing to move, offered to buy the land from Washington if his terms were moderate. He told them he had no inclination to sell.

However, Washington's diary reads: "After hearing a good deal of their hardships, their religious principles which had brought them together as a Society of Seceders, and unwilling to separate or remove, I told them I would make a

3,000 acres for the price of 12 pounds. (George was asking more than 3,000 pounds from the settlers.)

The grants of wild lands, lying in the forest beyond the Alleghenies, were considered of little value by the soldiers who received them. But Washington had a vision of future growth of the country beyond the Alleghenies. He had commissioned a Col. Crawford to select a body of good land for him, and Crawford had chosen this land on Miller's Run.

The suit was tried in 1786 before two Supreme Court judges and a jury at Washington. The legislative body in Pennsylvania, after the western boundary of Pennsylvania had been determined, apparently validated all of George Washington was the Father of Our Country" and that as a boy he told the truth—on one occasion, anyhow. But we felt there was a flaw in his character somewhere. After all, he had taken our land away from us. Well, he took it from our great, great, grandfather—but we resented it, just the same.

It was in 1773 that Thomas Bigger threw his sickle as far as he could at the end of the harvest season in Ireland, saying that was the last wheat he would ever reap for King George! Weary of the Irish landlords' oppression, Thomas set sail with Elizabeth, his bride of a few months, for America where he had heard there was fertile soil in abundance.

After spending the first winter with two older brothers in Chambersburg, Thomas and Elizabeth crossed the Allegheny Mountains and his wife Elizabeth. The soil which the horses' hooves turned up was rich. Thomas saw below him what appeared to be an opening in the forest. When he reached the opening, he found that someone had abandoned an unroofed cabin there.

It was this period that led to the dispute with George Washington.

Having been warned of the approach of a band of warring Indians, who later massacred his three neighbors on Raccoon Creek, Thomas Bigger fled with his family for safety to a fort near Miller's Run (in the vicinity of what is now Canonsburg). He purchased a farm near the fort and went to work, clearing the land interests. Having property west of the Alleghenies, he visited first the site of a mill he owned near Ft. Pitt. Then, according to Washington's diary, he set out on Sept. 18, 1784, for Miller's Run. There he visited the homes of Thomas Bigger and his neighbors—all of them living on a tract totaling nearly 3,000 acres, which Washington claimed as his own. The settlers, not wishing to move, offered to buy the land from Washington if his terms were moderate. He told them he had no inclination to sell.

However, Washington's diary reads: "After hearing a good deal of their hardships, their religious principles which had brought them together as a Society of Seceders, and unwilling to separate or remove, I told them I would make a last offer, and this was the whole tract at 25 shillings per acre, the money to be paid in three annual payments with interest."

The settlers did not have the resources to meet these terms. They asked George if he would take that price for a longer term with interest. He refused.

The neighbors—James Scott, William Stewart, Thomas Lapsley, James and Samuel McBride, Brice and Duncan McGeechan, David and John Reed, Matthew Johnson, William Hillas, Thomas Glenn and Thomas Bigger—stood together. They determined to stand suit for the land, which they had purchased from Col. George Croghan, an early surveyor in Western Pennsylvania. Croghan had made an agreement with the Indians for the land.

Washington's claim was based on grants made by Virginia to her soldiers who served in the French and Indian War. One of Washington's neighbors at Mount Vernon had sold him his grant of nearly commissioned a Col. Crawford to select a body of good land for him, and Crawford had chosen this land on Miller's Run.

The suit was tried in 1786 before two Supreme Court judges and a jury at Washington. The legislative body in Pennsylvania, after the western boundary of Pennsylvania had been determined, apparently validated all of the Virginia land grants in Washington County, and thus made good George Washington's title to the Miller's Run property. The Supreme Court was in his favor, and he proceeded to evict the settlers.

The Court Favored Washington, And He Proceeded To Evict The Settlers

Dispossessed of the land on Miller's Run but not disheartened, Thomas Bigger brought his family back to their original home on Raccoon Creek. There he took up where he had left off at the time of the Indian raid, clearing a farm of nearly 500 acres and establishing a home for himself and five generations of descendants.

How do we feel about George Washington now? Well, he's still no hero in our book. After all, for the seven years' effort which Thomas Bigger and his neighbors had put into clearing the land and erecting buildings on it, we feel George could have been gracious enough to soften the credit terms.

FOREWORD

At the second reunion of the Folsom Family Association, then called the Descendants of the Immigrant John Folsom, on August 24, 1910, a committee on genealogy was elected with Miss Frances A. Mathes as chairman, the object being to collect enough data to warrant having a new geneaolgy printed. Miss Mathes served until 1915 and reported over 1200 names of Folsoms had been filed. No genealogical data of this filed-list was turned over to the writer who became chairman in 1915. During this latter year, blanks asking for family records were printed and sent to the addresses found in the secretary's book, in Chapman's genealogy of the family, to names found in town and city registers, in telephone books, and to all names given by the members. This work extended over several years. Enquiry from an Oklahoma family, in 1915, started the intense correspondence with families in that state which lasted over a period of some years, during which time also much correspondence was carried on with Mrs. Carolyn C. Boyd of Georgia, and other Georgia families, in trying to connect that large southern branch.

Mr. Israel Phillips Folsom, whose inspiration it was to found the family association, turned over to the writer the collection of data which he had secured previous to the formation of the society. This was typed and numbered to fit the material in the Chapman book. A new genealogy could not be written with just the additional data collected since the publication of the old book in 1882, and the latter was wholly re-written, with the new material added in the proper line of descent and generation. Many original sources were searched for any items of history in the colonial period that would add human interest to the lives of the early families.

The writer has made some changes in the style of the Chapman edition; the whole material has had to be renumbered, and the Israel^3 Folsom line corrected, as well as some

ANCESTRY OF JOHN FOLSOM

The first traceable ancestor of John Foulsham is (1) Roger Foulsham of Necton, county of Norfolk, England, whose will is dated 1534. (2) William, his son, married Agnes Smith alias Foulsham, of Besthorpe, and was father of (3) Adam of Besthorpe, who married Emma ——, and whose will is dated 1565. He owned lands in Besthorpe, Wymondham (Windham), Bunwell, Hingham, and Hackford. (4) Adam, his son, was baptized in 1560; married Grace ——; had a home in Hingham and lands in Besthorpe. He died in 1630. (5) Adam, of Hingham, son of the latter, married Agnes —— and died in 1627. The facts in the preceding paragraph, and thus far in the present are given on the authority of the MSS. of Hon. George Folsom, who visited England and explored every possible source of information. He next states that "Adam" the fourth in descent from "Roger," left a son named "John,"—i.e. the first Anglo-American John Foulsham. From this first Anglo-American John Folsom of Exeter, N. H. and his wife, Mary Gilman Folsom, are descended, as far as we know, all the Folsoms in America. (Chapman, p. 13)

The wills of the "Smith alias Foulsham" family of Norfolk county, England, show the ancestry of John Folsom of Hingham, Massachusetts, and Exeter, New Hampshire, to be a little different from that published in the Chapman history of the family and elsewhere. See Foulsham Families in England.

This Adam Folshame of Hingham was son of John of Hingham and Hackford who died intestate 28 April 1620, and grandson of Adam of Besthorp. His son, John Smith alias Folsham, sold the Hackford estate given to him in his father's will.

The Rev. Jacob Chapman in his genealogy on page 14 says: "There has been a tradition that the father of the

On the 28th of Sept. 1668, the town of Exeter "granted to John Folsome, Junior, 20 acres of land about Salisbury old way between James Walls land and Hampton line provided it was not formerly given." That same year he was one of the men chosen to "run the line between Hampton and Exeter upon the line west and by north." On 22 Feb. 1670, "John Folsome, Jr. was added to the men formerly agreed upon to run the line between Hampton and Exeter, according to the Court order, that is to begin at ye bound tree at Asse brooke and soe to direct upon a direct lyne so as to leave Exeter falls a myle and halfe due north of ye same, and from thence upon a West and by north lyne to the extent of ten miles." (Old Norfolk County Records)

On Apr. 2, 1675 the town of Exeter granted to "John Folsom, junier two hundred acres." The next event in the life of John, Jr. in this year was his marriage. In 1676, Sept. 26th he with others "were accepted for inhabitants and for comoners of the township according to law." (Exeter Town Records)

At a "Court held in Hampton May 30, 1676" he was on the Grand Jury, and also in Sept. of that year was Constable. His autograph may be seen on a venire dated Aug. 28, 1676. In 1666 and 1669 he had served at the courts

At a "Court held in Hampton May 20, 1679" he was on the Grand Jury, and also in Sept. of that year was Constable. His autograph may be seen on a venire dated Aug. 26, 1679. In 1676 and 1669 he had served at the courts held in Hampton on jury trials. (Essex Court Records) On Apr. 1st 1678 he was chosen one of the tythingmen of Exeter. (Exeter T. R.) April 20, 1694 he was one of those who "ware voted and Chosen A Commtta in the behalfe of ye towne to calle those persons that ware Selectmen ye last yare, to give in account of ye money riased to defray ye towne charges and how desposed, and to make report of ye same at ye next towne metten." (Exeter T. R.)

Oct. 24, 1676, John Foalsam given credit for military service in John Hull's ledger—00:03:04 (Bodge's "Soldiers of King Phillips War," p. 449)

He was chosen General Assemblyman in 1693, and also in Oct. and Nov. 1694, to meet in New Castle. (N. H. State Papers, Vol 4, pp. 625, 643)

John Folsom's name appears in the following court cases: Court at Hampton Oct. 11, 1664, "Abraham Drake v. John Fulsham, jr. for debt. Special verdict. If the evidence proved a legal demand, they found for defendant." In Court at Salisbury Nov. 11, 1679, "John Foulsham, jr. v. Hannah Foulsham, wife of Nathaniel for slanderously reporting Abigail wife of John Folsham, jr., judgment that Hannah should publish or publicly own this acknowledgment, 'that I hanna folsham have accused my sister Abigail Folsham for stealing meatt and other things from me and ten shillings in Monie from peter folsham, I now owne yt I have Done her wrong and am heartily sorrie for itt and shall labor to make satisfaction.' John Folsham, jr. was allowed costs for going to Hingham for evidence, etc." (Essex Court Records)

In the first volume of Provincial Papers there is a deposition (pp. 554-7) from John Folsom, Jr. bearing date 1684 "that he had received a list of names in Exeter, with fines annexed, amounting to 50 pounds, that he was required by the Governor and Council to go and demand the sum; but the people refused to pay, saying the taxes should be raised by the General Assembly, which answer he gave to Governor and Council; whereupon they took the scroll out of his hands and delivered it to Thomas Thurton, provost marshal, and he was ordered by a warrant from the Secretary to aid said Thurton."

This summary treatment was honorable to him from such a government as that of Cranfield's, and shows how "acceptably," at least to the people if not to the party in power, he filled that special office of constable by forbearing to push the demand for oppressive and unconstitutional taxes and fines. The following quotation from the same portion of the Provincial Papers will show the sort of "aid" he gave to the provost marshal, and that he could turn with wrath and contempt on the public foes, deacon though he was. Under date of Dec. 29, 1684, there is a deposition of this Thurton, that "being sent to collect these fines, and one of 50 shillings on John Foulsham for neglecting the duty of his office as constable, Foulsham told him that if he came to levy execution at his house, he should meet him with a red-hot spit and scalding water; and bade him go, like a rogue as he was." The women of the Gilman family must also have some of the fame of this affair, for the provost marshal adds, that "being at the house of Edward Gilman (son of the first Edward and lost at sea abt. 1653) the wife of James Gilman (grandson of the first Edward b. 1659) told him she had provided a kettle of scalding water for him, if he should come." He thought it rather rough treatment, especially as no money had yet been demanded of them. (Chapman, p. 19)

In 1698 John Folsom, Jr. was granted 100 acres of land in Exeter.

He then served on the cruiser U.S.S. Memphis, best known as the ship designated to bring Charles Lindbergh home after his historic flight to France. THE ALEX. M. CROSS HOUSE

A third stone house in this area belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Alex. M. Cross who reside most of the time elsewhere but retain an apartment in the building.

Mrs. Kathryn Slassor, through the aid of a fellow historical writer for the Burgettstown Enterprise, Mr. A. D. White, received from Mr. Cross the following account to which my inquiry was referred. Indebtedness to all the above is hereby acknowledged.

> "The Cross family came from Ireland in 1793, and bought 300 acres of land which was called Haywood tract. A log house was used until about 1832, when James Cross built the present stone house of six rooms and a cellar. The house was built of stone from the farm, plus stones hauled from the Levi Standish Mill Farm two miles away. This Standish farm was in what was then Virginia, now West Virginia.
> "The white frame part of the house is the third kitchen. The first one was of logs. The big open fireplace in the stone wall was used for heating and cooking. The second kitchen was of sawed lumber with a porch on each side. Late in the nineteenth century, a building formerly located a short distance away was moved to its present location to replace the second kitchen.
>
> "Susannah Cross, who was a granddaughter of James Cross, died in 1913. The house was vacant for eighteen years. Then Mr. and Mrs. James Sutherin and family lived in the house for eight years. Again it was vacant for a while. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Crago, the present occupants have lived in the house for almost twenty-seven years.
>
> "The Cross farm, which contains 157 acres, and the stone house are owned by a grandson of James Cross, Alexander M. Cross and his wife, Grace Cross.
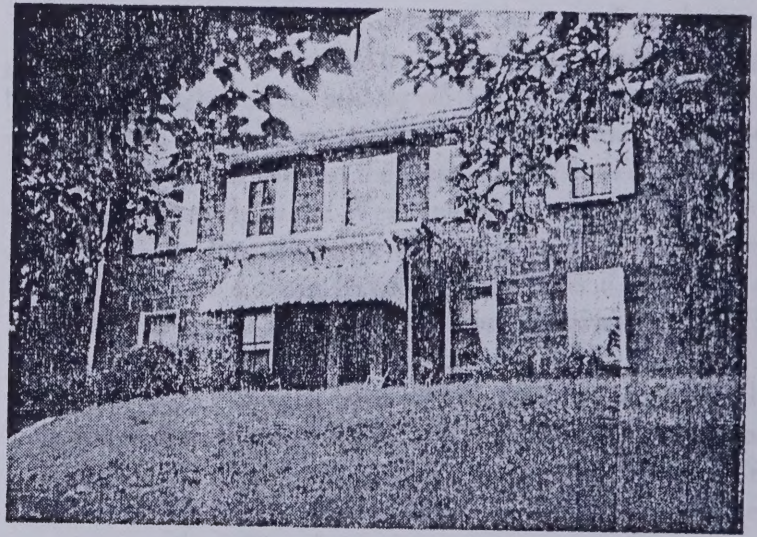
> "A honeysuckle vine vies with five-leaf ivy in covering much of the outside walls. The ivy was started from sprouts in the woods, by James Sutherin, when he lived there."

The house is not open to visitors at any time.

THE BIGGER HOUSE



Perhaps the most elaborate in construction is the Bigger house in Allegheny County, on the outer rim of Beaver County, but closely associated with Beaver County history.

The original owners were Thomas Bigger and wife. The present owners are Thomas Bigger and wife. Through generations the house has not gone outside the family.

Cut stone steps lead from the stone floor of the front porch to a stone walk and more stone steps at the roadside. Stone posts used for a surrounding fence stand as upright today as when they were first planted.

Across the road and down a steep wooded hillside is Racoon Creek. Here was located the first log Bigger house. A little farther is the site of Fort Dillow. A few rods beyond it is the site of the first mill in Beaver County, the White's Mill. The fort is long gone. During the construction of a new bridge over Racoon Creek, the stones of the mill were obliterated.

While the Bigger house is extremely interesting in itself, of equal interest is the history of the Bigger family, enmeshed, as it was, in conflict of land claims, with no less than George Washington.

What is more, it was a conflict among tittles of land bought by George Croghan directly from the Indians and title by grant from the king of England through the governor of Virginia. Title was also claimed by the proprietors of Pennsylvania who were buying land from the Indians.

The first American Thomas Bigger arrived in Philadelphia in 1773, when he was thirty years old and his wife, nineteen. Early in 1774, they came across the Alleghenies to the home of a brother at the junction of the Youghiogheny and the Monongahela rivers. They chose a land site, on which was a vacant unfinished cabin, and built their home. Thomas was enrolled in guard duty in the militia which patrolled the Ohio River. "Each man was given a station and his beat along the river extended one mile each way until he met the next patrol."

The Biggers and several neighbors, also Scotch-Irish, obtained their land from George Croghan, who for a time had the backing of Benjamin Franklin and other Philadelphia business men. Washington, however, had instructed his friend and early surveyor, Colonel Crawford, to select for him a body of good land of the amount called for by what was known as Posey's Grant and do whatever was necessary to perfect the title.

Washington paid Posey twelve pounds ($60.00) for nearly three thousand acres, which by Colonel Crawford's choice, was inclusive of the land on which later the Biggers and their neighbors settled.

The Posey Grant was part of the bounty lands, which according to Arthur Butler Hurlbert, in his book, Washington and the West, Century Co., 1905, was offered by Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia. "To all who would volunteer in the Fort Necessity campaign; Washington, as ultimate commander of the expedition, became possessed of the lion's share, and he shrewdly added to his holdings by purchasing other claims held by officers and soldiers under him, who preferred ready money to the Colonial Governor's promise. Thus, at one time or another, the proprietor of Mt. Vernon invested his money heavily in the West, until, at the close of the Revolution, we learn from a letter written to President John Witherspoon of Princeton College, he had 'patents' under the signature of Lord Dunmore . . . for about 30,000 acres and surveys for 10,000 more."

Thomas Bigger and the other settlers offered to repurchase the land on which they were located. Washington agreed to sell, but they could not, in a series of meetings, agree on the price. The settlers said they would take their claims to higher courts if necessary. They did. They lost.

In final boundary settlements between Pennsylvania and Virginia, most of the Virginia patents within the present Pennsylvania were honored. Little is said, but underneath is a feeling that the Father of his Country could have been a bit more lenient. On his part, he wrote that to give in to these settlers might lead to loss in other claims.

Although Creghan had paid the Indians a great deal more than the purchase price of Manhattan, his right to give a clear title was ignored. Pennsylvania held to a decree of the Proprietors that no individual could buy land from an Indian, or Indians.

The Bigger House, at the present time, is not open to visitors.

Dear Esther,

We are finally getting our winter blizzards. We were snowed in last weekend and another is in progress today.

One day last summer one of my neighbors showed me her Elliot genealogy. In reading it over I was amazed to find that her Hall line was the same as mine only more complete and gave interesting information on such names as Kimball, Marsh and Merrill. Also a list of passengers aboard the Mayflower.

On our trip to New England last summer we visited my cousins in Springfield, Mass. They have been D.A.R. members for years joining thru their mother's ancestry. They have been trying to clear the Hall line for years – but there is a skeleton in the Hall Family Closet.

I find family histories more interesting than novels. One thing it said about the Elliots in merry old England was that "they carried away everything that wasn't too heavy to lift or too hot to handle"

I have a few souvenirs that Grandfather Jenkins brot back from the Civil War. A shell, a Richmond newspaper 1863, a glass whiskly flask carried by Major Savage, Grandfather's Commanding officer and a horse hair chain, made by a Confederat soldier and given to Grandfather as a token of appreciation. Grandfather was put in charge of prisoners after he was wounded. Tells about it in the Twelfth N.H. Regiment I think. Point Lookout, Md. stays in my mind.

Hope you enjoy all this as much as I do sending it along.

Sincerely,
Elaine

Joseph Jenkins had two wives and thirteen children, six by wife No 1 and seven by wife No. 2. All lived on Beauty Hill in Barnstead, N. H.

Eldest Son
William Albert
Grandfather of Ralph Jenkins of N. J.

Joseph - Grandfather of Margaret Tasker and sister Lura Dennison, who live in Pittsfield in summer and Cambridge, Mass in winter.

John - Know nothing about him.

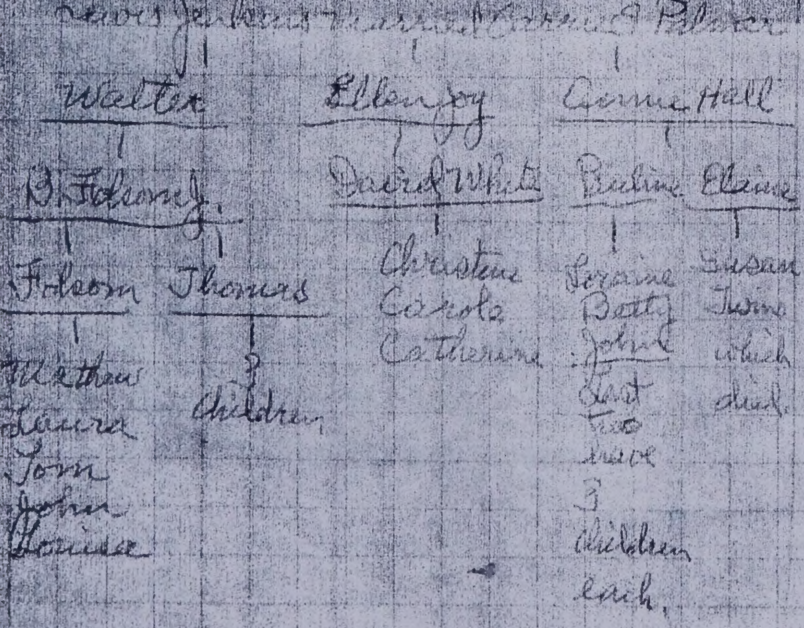
These three and the three girls were no longer living when picture taken

Nancy, who married one of Carrie Jenkins' (Lewis J's. wife) relatives, so her descendants are double cousins.

Louisa - a twin of Lewis.

Mary - a twin of Melvin.

In the picture taken July 1 1911



Orrin - eldest of these seven brothers. Grandfather of Mildred Salter, who had a sister, Grace.

Lyman - the youngest was 65 years old when picture taken.
No children

Calvin - a son

Charles - three children each by two wives. (I knew them all.)
Walter S. Jenkins, a grandson, teacher of music at Tulane University in New Orleans. Two daughters 21 + 20 years old.

Everett - severely wounded in Civil War, losing use of arm and hand. Postmaster in Pittsfield. No children.

Melvin - twin of Mary - 2 children.

Orrin and Charles are half brothers to the others.
Everett, Lewis and Melvin walked from Barnstead to Concord to enlist in the 12th New Hampshire Volunteers in the Civil War. A monument at Gettysburg.

These seven brothers hadn't all been together since the Civil War. Lewis died a month later.

Dear Esther:

When you and Folsom get the two packages I have mailed to you, I hope you won't groan, as one cousin did when I gave her two pictures. She had just been through this sorting out and throwing away, and wanted nothing added to what she had. What I have sent you, you may throw away as soon as you receive it and there will be no hard feelings. I had to do something with all the junk in the attic. The three big pictures were all in heavy frames which will sell at the auction we are having in May, and I felt sure you would never hang them, even if I took the trouble to ship them out as they were. The picture of Grandma Jenkins and Folsom's Father were Aunt Annie's and the one of Grandpa Jenkins was my mother's. The things in the small package were all out of Grandma Jenkins' trunk, which I have had since she died.

Jonathon Palmer of Warner was the son of Christopher Palmer of Rye, who was married in 1705 to Elizabeth Berry. David Palmer was born in Warner Gore in 1799, married to Nancy Colby in 1818 and moved to Sutton with this father. He lived in town until his death in 1870. His wife died in 1866, aged 70 years. (Grandma Jenkins)

The Palmers of Sutton and Warner are descendants of Jonathan Palmer. Three of his sons, John, James and Jeremiah, settled early on a Lot Proprietor's Lot No. 8, drawn to the original right of John Moffat, one of the

The two spoons were the largest and the smallest of six and were sent to you because they had J on them. There were four teaspoons with H. O. on them, two of which I sent to each of the girls, Elaine and Pauline. H. O. is for Hannah Odell who was Grandpa Jenkins' aunt. Grandma Jenkins gave me one of the teaspoons long ago, so now we all have some. Two of the tintypes were of Uncle Walter, one of Grandpa Jenkins and the other, Ransom Palmer, her father. The papers are of no value but I thought Folsom might enjoy looking through them before they were destroyed. The deed to the Pond Place is to the farm where Grandpa Jenkins and my mother also, were born. Joseph Jenkins was one of the older half brothers, who was Margaret Lasker's grandfather. She lives here in town and is one of my close friends. When you come next time, I hope to have time to take you around and meet some of the relatives. There are still lots around.

Also among Grandma's things was the following I copied from the History of Sutton, N.H.

masonian proprietors. The locality has been known as Palmerstown or Palmer Gore. Here the three brothers lived to a great age and reared large families. Some of the Palmers have possessed much mechanical skill. David and Moses sons of John, made and operated about the first clapboard and shingle mill in Merrimack County. David was also a cooper, shoemaker and carpenter.

Children of James M. Palmer
Hattie A. married Daniel Powers
Carrie N. married John J. Bartlett
Children of Hattie Powers - Eva J. Bason, Addie J., Leon P., Shirley R., Arthur E.
Lavina Durgin's children - Ora A. Lear and Mary J. Bailey
Plumer P. Colcord's children - Lillian E.
Harriet Palmer born 1834 - died 1836.

Many of these names are familiar to me but I do not remember the people. Had I known all this when David was born, his middle name would have been Palmer. Isn't it confusing to know so many people have gone before you?

Have just found another page of Grandma's notes which I will copy on a separate sheet.

Ira joins me in sending love to you all.

Mr. Folsom Jenkins
841 Country Club Lane
Coronado, CA 92118

Dear Mr. Jenkins,

I'm working on a history of the John Miskimen family and I could certainly use your help. I have been researching the family for over two years, and your particular branch, Daniel, for almost a year. You are the first living descendant of Daniel Miskimen I have been able to locate.

John and Rachel Burt Miskimen were well-to-do residents of Newcomerstown, Tuscarawas County, Ohio. They had a total of 12 children; seven of them reaching adulthood and having families. The seven children are shown on the enclosed picture.

I now have contact with descendants of the 4 boys, you being the first for Daniel. My great grandfather is Franklin. Mary's family line has died out. She had two girls and only one of them had one daughter. That grand daughter died childless. I have little information about Charlotte and Rachel. Both were dead before 1900, but they do have surviving families. I just need more time to find them.

I have enclosed a descendant's tree for Daniel Miskimen as I know it. This was constructed solely from my research. People in my branch of the family know very little of your branch. I could really use some help with the genealogy and history of your line. I hope you won't mind talking about it with me.

Lastly, enclosed is a calendar that I passed out this year at our annual family reunion. We have one every year in New Philadelphia, Ohio the last weekend of June. The dates are indicated on this calendar.

This family research project is a labor of love and intended for family consumption. We have terrific family roots in John and Rachel and the descendant's that I have met are a reflection of them.

I hope this letter finds you in good health. In a few days I will call, once I know you have had time to get this letter and look through the information. Until then, I am

Respectfully yours,

James B. Sell

Mr. and Mrs. Otto J. Beiter under the 111-year-old Osage orange tree at their home in Shadybend.

by VIOLET EMSLIE OSLER

DANIEL BURT thought his wife was taking too many things with them on the trip westward. One can imagine his explaining the hardships of travel in 1836, but to no avail. For Mrs. Burt wanted a few familiar things from Orange County, New York, to take with her to far-away Ohio—especially something alive that would continue to grow and bring back memories of her old home.

Even when Dan insisted there would be lilac bushes and trees in Ohio, she was not to be dissuaded. And so on the 16-day journey a lilac bush and an Osage orange tree were carefully tended so that Sarah Fought Burt might start her new life with a few roots from her home state.

It had been difficult, breaking home ties at middle age, but Dan and Sarah thought it best, since their older children already had gone to Ohio. John, Morris, Fought, James, Clara, Kathryn and Sarah all had homes in the new country and were beginning to raise families of their own. Dan and Sarah felt uneasy so far away from them all. So with Danny and Rachel, still in their teens, the Burts set out for Coshocton County.

It was November when they arrived in Oxford Township and in April their new home was ready for them. By then the Osage orange tree and the lilac bush began to put forth new leaves.

The tree grew and the Burt family grew, and the house grew also, in order to accommodate the increasing number of grandchildren. Danny and Rachel soon were married and they, and all the Burt children, came often with their youngsters to visit the old folks.

The tree, growing taller every year, spread its cool shade over the house and the romping, clambering grandchildren. For 30 years it sheltered Sarah Burt and her family, through happiness and sorrow, through good fortune and bad. When she and Dan passed on, daughter Rachel inherited the home and farm, and she and her husband, John Miskimen, reared their youngsters there. Then the house passed to another member of the family and eventually was sold to outsiders. Neglected, it finally fell into ruins and stood, for years, a disreputable old heap until it was torn down about 20 years ago.

Today the tree and the bush still can be seen on Route 16 at Shadybend, just out of Newcomerstown. Now 111 years old, they burst forth with new leaves each spring just as they did the year after Sarah Burt planted them there. The tree has been battered by severe winds and struck by lightning more than once. Many of its great branches have rotted away but for some reason there is a trim, fresh look about it. Could it be because once more the tree has someone to shelter? Someone who cares what becomes of it?

Dear Cousin Folsom:

Iam happy to have guessed right for I have thought of youfolks for years and wondered how you were. I am especially glad your mother is with you and I hastened to make a copy of my father's family tree which would also be that of your own grandfather. It is my hope that she may enjoy it provided she does not already know all about it, but this I think unlikely, since at Portsmouth they did not know.

Aunt Belle died, then Aunt Ella, John Parlin and Annie, his wife, and finally Henry Ayers. I do not know about Henry's wife Sarah, they lived in Florida. This branch of the family is now extinct. My parents are gone, as are Uncle Charlie and his wife. My brother Robert Lincoln Folsom died 10 years ago. I am Emerson and have four married children, eight grandchildren and three plus great grandchildren. I never liked the name Charles and never used it until, in signing my first payroll I was asked what C. stood for. I have always been known as "Dick" , it seems Grammie Folsom said there were enough Johns in the family and hoped I would have another name. My mother picked eight, a quaint old Maine custom intended to give a child the chance to pick those best liked later in life. But father did not record but two, those of his friend a sea captain whose wife was also an old Maine friend of my mother. I never knew you had a first initial B or what it stood for. The last I heard from your folks was just before they moved from Portsmouth I was asked by George Ayers to trace his Marden ancestors.

This old typewriter is about worn out, easy to see from the enclosed charts. I am not a typist, but always wrote on a typewriter since my handwriting was so poor, due to taking notes, which I did for more than 40 years newspaper work in having published millions of words in all kinds of news. I was a newspaper correspondent in two world wars and during the last was at Lakehurst where Hugh Allen was, rank slips my memory. Perhaps he was an Admiral since Lieut. F.A.Petrie, 4-29-42, inscribed a copy of "The Story of the Airship" by Allen, "To Dick Folsom- With best regards from the Navy and from Hugh Allen by proxy. Lt.F.A.Petrie USNAS Lakehurst NJ 4-29-42."

My younger son John was two years on a destroyer in the Pacific, returning home from Japan after experiencing being alone in a subway station, the only white man among crowds of Japanese, but who he said, were most polite and courteous. Two of my sons-in-law were also in the Navy, one commanded a LST in the Pacific and was caught in a terrible typhoon in the China Sea. The other was four years on heavy cruisers, So. America, Africa, Italy, the Normandy invasion (on the USS Missouri) and the Pacific.

The war upset everybody and their normal routine of life. I am happy to hear you have had such a fine career both in and out of the Navy. I wish I could match it. But my life has been that of a sort of slave of society, always on the front line for a newspaper , serving the public. And all you get for it is the thrill and insight into the chief interest of the moment, watching other live in all of the professions and all the ways people live, both high and low. but that it too long a story to go into here. Suffice to say I have walked with Presidents, Kings, the famous and the notorious both good and bad, when the spotlight was fiercest on their doings. Four years I was practising law, without being a member of the bar although I did attend law school, while acting as what you would call "executive officer" for a District Attorney, with rank of Indictment Clerk and Justice of the Peace. I traveled from Florida to Newfoundland and in the mid-west on news assignments, yes taking this old machine and my camera. I wore out an earlier typewriter in 20 months "covering" the first WW in 1917-19 but without hearing a gun fired.My mother was in California for five months in the early 30s but got homesick and came back. She died in 1936. I do hope it won't be 50 more years before I hear again and if you send me her address I would like to write to your mother. But give her my love and best wishes.

With sincere regards,

Emerson Folsom

- For looking further back in the history of theGibbs family than Herman Gibbs I start from the following quotations.

  <Gibbs was born in the Duchy of Baden, German, on September 29, 1733. It is claimed thathe saw service in the French and Indian War and during the American Revolution as an official of Orange County, North Carolina, under the Continental Government. The Gibbs family had once been courtiers at the royal court when theStuart dynasty held power in England and held great estates there. Gen. G. W. Gibbs, a son of Nicholas, in a letter to the first William Gibbs McAdoo, in 1846, stated that his family left England to save their heads at the time their king lost his, and from this bit of information, we believe that the Gibbs family migrated to Germany when Cromwell came to power and caused King Charles I to be executed. >>

  A family letter written to May Powers on January 28, 1949 by W. H. Thomas states:

  << . . . that the Gibbs were originally Scottish that left England, "They were Scotch, came to England with the Stuart Kings, were Royalists and left to save their heads when Cromwell cut off the head of their King, Charles I. The family evidently possessed wealth and power under the Stuart dynasty.">>

  If they indeed made the transition fromEngland to Germany, it might be useful to try to build up a picture of the family in England-Scotland. In this way we might hope to learn when they made the transition and what the names of the people were who were likely to have left England at this time. Since they served the Stuart family, it is useful to review the royal history of this period.

  Mary, Queen of Scots, was the sister of the ruling queen of England at the time we begin.

  She knew, since Elisabeth had no heirs, that any son of hers would have a strong claim on the title of King of England. The other strong claim would be by Darnely Stuart. To eliminate this problem and strengthen her claim, she married him and bore his son, James.

  When James was one year old she was taken to England, acaptive, by her sister. She never saw her son again and was later beheadedwith the tacit approval of Elizabeth. However, her ploy worked, for when Elizabeth died she designated James as her successor. He was already James VI of Scotland and had been since his mother left him. He took at the death of Elisabeth

(in 1603) the additional title of James I of England and was thefirst of the Stuart Line.
James was born in 1566 (so was 37 at the time) and had a family.
His wife was Anne of Denmark.
They had several children. The first was Henry and would have been King after James but he died at the age of 18.
The second was Elizabeth (later known as "The Winter Queen").
She may play an important role in the (our) family history. She married Fredrick V of the Platinate. In 1618 the Thirty Year's War began in Europe and the Platinate was involved in much of it. She had three children of note:
1) Charles Louis. He was to become Charles I of the Platinate at the signing of the treaty of Westphalia in 1648 which brought peace to the Platinate and its control back to the family.
Fredrick V had died in 1632
2) Rupert (known as Prince Rupert). His is a very famous name in Canada since he founded the Hudson Bay Company. He was his uncle's (Charles I of England see next James child) principal general in the English civil war.
3) Sophia. The present Queen of England, Elisabeth II decends from her.
The third child of James and Anne was Charles and he became Charles I of England. He had a great deal of trouble with Parlement and fought the English Civil War with a group from the Parlement led by Oliver Cromwell. We need to follow to his story closely since it is at his defeat that our

DETAILS

Friday July 31st. Our 38th wedding anniversary and just another ordinary working day for both of us. We said our usual happy anniversay to each other and then spent the day like any other. Only differance was I got a new dishwasher. The old one which I hadn't used for over 2 years was smelling pretty ripe. Well downright alful is more like it.. Anyhow it was easier according to Bill to buy a new one and put it in then to have to seal off the garbage disposal somehow before disconnecting the dishwasher (the old one) or some such thing. Anyhow for Bill's ease a new dishwasher was gotten and installed and I no longer have to wash dishes by hand anymore. And the smell is gone. Thank goodness. Cause if Willie had smelled that when she got back from San Diego she would of up and left again, probably never to come back to this stinky house. But she no longer can use that excuse so she will have to stay so we can work on the geneology, fuss over dumb things and clean house. I make her take care of the dusting and making sure we always have water from the waterstore on hand. She also has to keep the ice tray full of ice at all times. Have to admit that a great job she does on her chores too. She probably gets a little discusted with me (well probably a whole lot discusted) but she knows she is loved and appreciated. At least I hope she does.
Sat. Aug 1st. grocery shopping & birthday shopping to finish up /Bills birthday from me such as it is. Then over to Lori's to clean out her cedar chest and pack her quilt and afcan mother made into one plastic container and all her scarves, dollies, etc. in another one, repack the cedar chest with keepsakes, etc. Took time to chit chat a little and then back home to do the laundry, mop the kitchen floor, etc.
Thats the news upto now the 1st of Aug.

-Aug 4th (tuesday) and its Bill's birthday. The night before I decided I was to lazy to wrap his presents which consisted of 4 shirts, package of socks, a table lamp for his table next to his chair and a patio table (a small plastic one that matches the four chairs he already has). So I took the lamp and set it on the floor next to the table which I had arranged very cute with shirts and socks and the next morning when he got up he thought it was christmas instead of his birthday and santa had paid him a visit. Then off to work we go. Come home and Robin calls to say happy birthday to him and explain why her family would not be over. Brandy was on the upswing from being real bad sick. Bad enough sick it required a doctors visit as she had fainted from a high fever. It was just the flu but not a light case. Then Sierra had a mild cold and wasn't up to par and Robin did not want to spread her family germs around. Craig came over for awhile to visit, Also Carrie and Andrea and they bought him a small megnatic picture frame to put one of Andrea's pictures in they would be picking up a couple of days later. I think I mentioned before that 4 out 5 kids had gotten together on father;'s day & bought Bill a water fountain to set up in the backyard which was his fathers day and birthday present combined. But Lori wasn't in that gift so on his birthday she came over with more shirts for Bill. Needless to say Bill's shirt supply is very low and he needed to be replenished so this did the trick altogether. Anyhow he had a wonderful day. Also he wants me to say thank you for the birthday cards which he loved.

Willie got home on thursday or was it Wednesday. No matter what she was tired and worn out but had a great time. Did all kinds of fun things. Kyle and Theresa were suppose to be back this day also. They extended their vacation until sunday. Were having to much fun.
On friday --Aug. 7th, Tyler got to spend the night for the fun of it. Mom and John took advantage of the opportunity to go out to dinner and the movies. We read stories & played Solidaire on the computor. Plus he got to water everything in the backyard a couple of times.
Sunday--Aug 9th. Craig's birthday. First Willie, Bill and I went to Carrie's to see her home. I have seen it often but Bill had never been there. Neither had Willie. Plus Carrie had bought a new dining room table and chairs set she wanted to show off. Everyone was duly impressed. And Andrea had a grand time showing grandpa her bedroom which she is very proud of. Then back home. Craig was over & he got his present. First of all when we went to the circus I paid for his ticket and said happy birthday but then decided that he needed to have something to unwrap on his day. So while Lori and I had been at Target to get her plastic containers I picked up the game called- Mancala. Lori or I did not know what it was. Just knew it was a game of some sort. Anyhow it got wrapped and opened and it turned out to be a very simple marble counting game that takes some simple skill and luck and was so much fun that on another trip to Target both Willie and I bought one so we could play it with other people. Later in the afternoon Robin, Brandy, Ryan & Sierrra came over with a apple pie for dads/grandpas belated birthday dessert. I made chicken and dumplings and a tossed green salad and we ate. Thats Robin's favorite dinner in the whole wide world she claims.

Next day on monday--Aug 10th I didn't have to work so I told Willie I was going to Target, did she want to come along and yes she did. We both shopped, then Willie took me out to lunch at the Five & Diner (which is a 50's type place). Food was good, good & good. Atmosphere was fun to. Even with the juke boxes at the county and on the tables.

Aug 14th, friday, and Andrea comes to spend the night. She wasn't feeling up to par because of a sore throat but she was good considering the fact she didn't feel that great.

Aug 15th. saturday. Andrea leaves with her other grandmother and Lori & Tyler came over and we (Willie & I) left with them and we went out to lunch for german food at a restaurant called the Bavarian Point. Was very good & fun.

Thats it for now. Notes to be continued later on.

Later on has arrived & here goes more notes. Today is Sept. 3rd.

Starting Aug 14th, and every friday afternoon the plan is now for Carrie to bring Andrea over to be watched between the times Carrie leaves for work in the afternoon and Ramon picks her up for the weekend. First friday went great. Andrea is very easy to entertain.

Then the following friday, Aug. 28th, after working (we had cleaned 4 houses that day), I made the usual friday trip to the post office, bank, getting gas in the car and going to the grocery store I arrived home to skim the mail, talk to Carrie and Robin on the phone and then take off again. First go to Carrie's and pick up Andrea, from there we went to Robin's and picked up Ryan and Sierra. Robin and Brandy are going on a camping trip with their girl scout troop for the weekend. Gary is in Maryland for two weeks going to a hazardous materials school for the City of Mesa Fire Dept. Get home, cook the usual hotdogs and applesause for the two girls, make tacos for the rest of us (Ryan broke his record and ate 10 this time), give the girls their baths, clean the kitchen, stir Ryan into the bathroom for his shower, feed me, (can't remember if Willie ate with us or not that time), and Ramon shows up to pick up Andrea, he leaves, feed Bill, Willie and I clean up the kitchen, Bill goes off to bed, After Ryans dinner and shower he falls asleep on the couch for 3 hours. Football practice, allergys, ten tacos==it made him a very tired teenager. He found out the night before that he made the 9th grade 1st string football team. I've already forgot what the name of his position is. Just know he tackles and is on the defensive side.. Sierra goes to bed a little after 8 and Ryan wakes up. Play a marble game with him (the same one that had got Craig for his birthday), and I won every one of them. Good for me for a change.

Next morning we have Ryan up and fed and off to football practice by 7:15 am. Bill had the honors of taking him there and picking him up later. In the meantime housework is done, Sierra is entertained. Then at about 10:30 Lori arrives with Tyler. She went to a house decorating party at one of the womens houses she works with where she also had brunch besides seeing all of the wares and spending money. The kids play great together. Sierra had a grand time with Andrea and Tyler. Then Kyle comes and gets Tyler and they are off on their own little camping trip up in the white mountains near the Mogellen Rim (don't think I spelled that right) Two hours later Lori is back to get Tyler and they leave to go get haircuts. Then mainly Willie entertained Sierra the rest of the afternoon. Sierra has decided she really likes Aunt Willie. Anyhow Sierra is with us for the rest of weekend with Robin coming to get her early evening on Sunday. Was a busy weekend , tiring, but fun for a change.

Then its work for the rest of this week. Am finally getting my mothers day present from the kids. They wanted to get me seat covers for the car but it has turned out to be a major problem getting them. So finally Robin just gave me the money and said do whatever I want to do. So I went to a place that makes custom seatcovers and they are being made and will be put on on saturday, hopefully. The front seat needs them real badddddd...........Quess thats the notes for this time.

Notes for the next round robin-------------------------- weekends of the 11th & 12th and 18th & 19th were fairly quite as Willie and I were still working fast and furiously on the family tree and Willie was trying to get orgainized to go to San Diego which she did on the the 22nd.

While she was gone I babysat Andrea the first week quite a bit here and there. Carrie was going to change jobs at the fort and was working strange hours. She was going to transfer into the casino and would be serving drinks there instead of the cafe. As no liquid is served on a indian reservation this is not a hard job. Anyhow due to some mixup somewhere in management she ended up going back into the cafe again. But she is first on the list to be able to go back into the casino when the next opening comes up. She wants in the casino as the tips are better there then in the cafe. No matter what things were a little confusing for her juggling times at work and keeping up with things at home to..

The first weekend Willie is gone I think I'll just get all kind of things done as it should be a fairly quite routine weekend and saturday. WRONG!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! First thing to happen. 8:30am. Lori calls and says lets go to lunch. I say, can't as Ramon is suppose to come over about 2 and look at the printer and see what the problem is hopefully. She says no problem. We eat at MiAmigos again and eat at 11. Will back home by noon. I agree to that. But before she gets here Craig comes over & stays for awhile. Then Robin, Brandy and Sierra come over to return a plate (from Ryan's Boston Creame Pie he had taken home on his birthday) and they stayed for awhile. I really enjoyed them all. They were being their usual comical selfs. But they all left and I just had enough time to be ready for when Lori and Tyler came. Tyler stayed with grandpa while we went to lunch. That made for a nice time for mother and daughter to get to visit and show each other new pictures we had. Lori's were from her and John's vacation. They had gone on a 3 day cruise down the coast of California to Baja Mexico. Then went to La Vegas. In the meantime Craig was babysitting Tyler. They had a grand time together, eating, playing going to the movies (went to the Imex Theatre in Tempe and took in a 3D movie which I'm not sure who enjoyed it the most, Craig or Tyler) . When Lori and John got to Las Vegas Craig got Tyler on a airplane and he flew from Phoenix to Las Vegas by himself. Craig was afraid that Tyler might be a little scared of flying by himself but evidently he didn't mind at all. 5 years old and becoming a jet setter already. Anyhow Lori and John was at the airport to meet Tyler at the other end so he was okay about the trip and thanked the flight attentant for taking care of him. Tyler was the one who thanked the flight attendant. Anyhow Lori and I had a very nice lunch and in the course of it all we decided that she needed to take out some stuff out of her cedar chest as it was intirely to full and heavy. So after lunch we went to Target catie corner from where we were eating and went in to buy 2 plastic containers to hold the stuff that was to be taken out of the cedar chest. Besides the plastic containers Lori picked up a couple other things and I-----Well I bought birthday presents for Craig, Brandy, Tyler & Lori plus a few other items that was needed in my minds view. That done and we get home at 12:45. No problem Ramon hadn't called or come by. He was out playing golf with Gary. Pildered--is that a word? I mean I got all kinds of odds and ends done that afternoon waiting for Ramon to show up. He never did. Carrie called about 5 and asked if Ramon had come by and I said no. She said "I'll call back later." She did. It seems Ramon forgot about coming over and after playing their rounds of golf he went to his mothers at Queen Creek to pick up Andrea. So after getting Andrea they both came to see what the problem on the printer was. According to Ramon its a piece of junk, outdated and useless, with a wheel that is suppose to connect with another wheel and doesn't. His remedy is to use it till it quits and then throw it in the trash and buy a new one. So as long as it will work I will do just that. The part about getting a new one may not happen though. So hopefully even though it is noisy it will work for a long time to come. Time will tell what will happen.

Kyle and Theresa left on Thursday the 23rd of July on vacation. They are driving by way of Bryce Canyon and Zion Nat'l Parks and Yellowstone before going to Seattle, Washington where Theresa is from. Kyle will meet her parents for the first time and vice versa. Then they will go to Vancouver, Canada for a couple of days, then back to Seattle for a few more days as Theresa's best friend is getting married and Theresa is part of the wedding party. Then from there will come down the coast on Hwy. 101 to Los Angeles and then over to Mesa. This is looking a little serious but with Kyle who knows what will happen. Again only time will tell.

I've enclosed 2 family sheets I would like the girls to fill out for me if they would. Tell them I would really appreciate it. I'll even leave it up to you to send them back to me so they won't have to mess with it.. Thank you for reminding me that I wanted to do that as I had forgotten.

I know this is not the usual long boring letter that you usually get (it is just a short boring letter) but I have to close for now. Do take care and again thank you so much for taking the time to make your old aunt happy by getting pictures made and having your daughters in law fill out papers for us. (Us is Willie and I) Do continue to take care of yourselves, enjoy your empty nest syndrom & write again soon as I do love hearing from you.

Love

Maryalice

Maryalice & Bill

P.S. When Willie gets here soon she is going to give me a few tips on operating this thing. One thing I haven't figured out yet is how to correct a mistake a few lines ahead of me. That is probably so simply to do but I haven't figured that out yet. Oh well - at least old age has its compensations for the dumb things I do.

Dear Willielee,

It is so thoughtful of you to remember our anniversary, especially with all you have going on in your life right now.
This is our 39th anniversary, so hope to plan something special next year.

We didn't know you had moved until we received your note. We definitely need your immediate family tree for reference; don't know who Lynn and Dwight are. You indicated you were out in the country. How far from Colorado Springs?

Roger is slowly adjusting to retirement. Still dabbles a bit with consulting, but has mostly thrown himself into volunteer work. Our church recently completed a large parish hall/kitchen/classroom addition and Rog was the "owner's" rep with the architect, contractor, and subs. He is currently board president of CASA, a local charitable organization. He also enjoys his involvement with a computer club and investment club.

I'm still employed full time and like my job, but wish it were part time. I'd like to go back to more tennis, reading, sewing, and trying new recipes. Right now Roger is chief cook (but not bottle-washer).

Our grandchildren are growing so fast. Attended Abby's (Ross's 5 1/2 year old) dance recital last night in Huntsville. Her group's dance was "The Beanie Baby Ballet". So-o cute. Unfortunately, the Community Ballet is a huge organization and the program was interminably long.
We left right after her performance.

Gwenn flew here with Claire and Anna from Michigan a few weeks ago. Both had changed so much since the last time we saw them nearly a year ago. It's our turn to visit them next, but I don't think we'll do it at Christmas again. Last time it was bitter cold and we're not used to those temps anymore.

Take care,

Jayne

Dear Willidee,

Aren't you surprised! I haven't written a letter since last one to you. Seems just always on the go. Its 10 PM so doubt if I get this finished tonight. Sarah is at the neighbors helping prepare for Vickies Bible School. Sarah has already been to hers. She's 13 now - don't like to Clean her rooms - such a mess! She still likes crafts. She wanted a swimming pool so last week I got a metal 4 ft, 15 foot pool, then decided not to put it up anymore this year. She would only have a month to use it and we be gone 2 weeks of tha I didnt want to pay to get it filled for such a short time.

I want to thank you for the Cute Birthday Card. I've always liked Cats but I dont want one here - they were ok on farm where they Could come in house or be outside

2) Sarah would like a cat or dog but Peggy doesnt like animals in house! She just came in from work, she's doing year end work at College for the audits.

(26th) Well I'll try again! Peggy was just promoted to Director of the Bussiness Office of Garrett Community College - what a mouthful! She really likes her work.

I cooked half the day Sat. getting ready for Steyer reunion at White Church. We had a real good time today, near 200 there. Sarah wouldn't join the games because she broke her arm there last year then had trouble riding rides at fair and on vacation. We are going back to Pigeon Forge & Dollywood 3rd week of Aug. We are taking other granddaughter Heathe again. I went with Peggy in May to Baltimore for 4 day when she took her C.P.A test - again. Hasn't heard yet if she passed. Our minister just came back from D.C., he had 4 wks school. Couldn't come home anytime. We all really like him. My Barba & a cousin did the services at 3 of his churches

3) I seen in our paper that Hildred (# Jims) Mulvey's son Ed. had died. The had Service in Oakland (he lived in Georgia) but no one let me know. I also had a call from Mary Lou Mulvey (Ralph) last week.
Shes coming up from Winchester Va. in Aug for lunch. All the Wildesons pretty good. I couldn't go to reunion.

I haven't done much but run around - taking Sarah swimming & Heather to work. I'm to get some carpet cleaned Tue. I thought it was last Tue so carried every thing out and they are still out - house looks bare sometimes I think it looks much better.

My little garden is doing good, I've had green beans, cucumbers, tomatoes squash, lettuce & onions. My second planting of lettuce is up - also some turnips. My flowers aren't very pretty - the Japanese Beetles are bad.

How are you getting along by now,
Hope everything is going well - Will you be coming to see Karen? How is she doing?

Well I'd better close for now.
Hope to get one of your good letters soon!

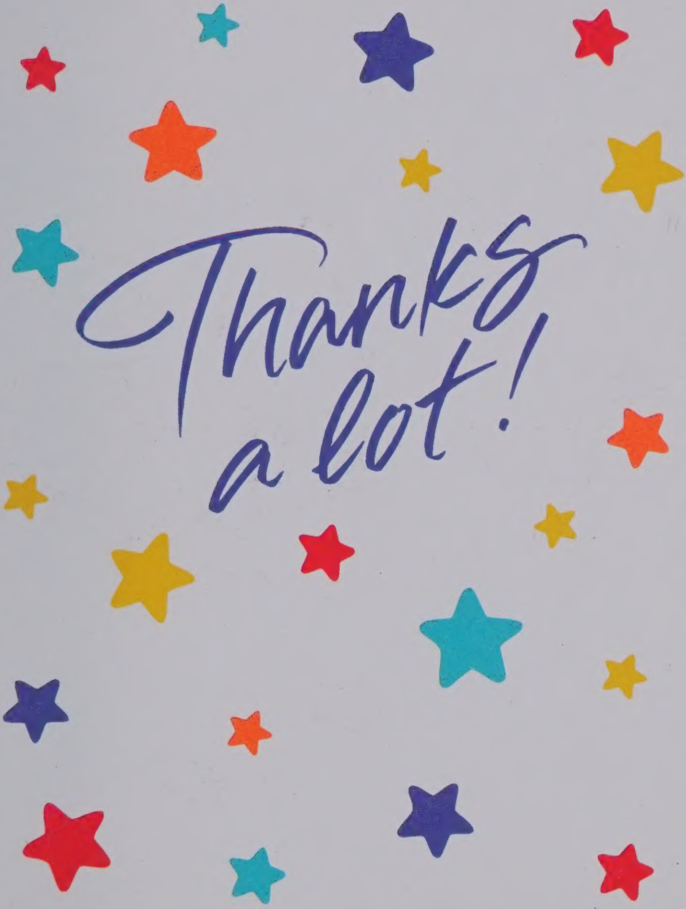
Love Charlene



Thanks a lot!

Aunt Willie Lee,
Thank you for the helicopter
and the police truck.
I like flying the helicopter and driving the truck.

Hi, Dear Sisters,

There you are having fun together. Great!! But think of me now and then.

Jody gave me some extra pictures so I'm sharing with you. Of course, they are good looking but you don't have to say so, I already know. That's a grandma talking.

We went up to their house on Father's day. Jody fixed dinner. I took a pecan and a chocolate pie. Got to meet Jody's oldest Brother, his wife and daughter. They will be taking their daughter down to the Air Force Academy and they weren't looking forward to leaving their only child there.

Here's an article for you from our local paper. I feel silly sending it, but you said to send stuff like this.

We are well except I still seem to have some of the crud in my body that I caught in California. Now and then I have to take a pill or cough medicine. Had to have a couple of cancer spots burned off my forehead last week. Boy, am I pretty with those two red spotches up there.

I called Don last week. He was out walking so I talked to Jackie. At that time they still didn't have a surgery date - if there was to be one. Jackie felt that Don wanted to have the Kidney removed and take his chances with surgery. She said the Kids had been supportive when I asked her about them. Jackie is taking this hard as she always does when someone she loves is hurting. She needs our prayers, too.

Our kids are all the same right now except that Joy is without a job. Don't know why. I wasn't given any details.

We've been having lots of rain and it is not sunny long enough to get out. Weeds are getting tall. Cliff gets out anyway, if it isn't raining too hard.

Well, I'll get this in the mail. Just wanted to share what little I know about Don with you.

Love Ya
Bennie

Dear Willielee,   7-19-98

Imagine my surprise when the doorbell rang Saturday morning and there stood a lady with a box in her ~~hand~~ hand she said was for me. I told her I wasn't expecting any packages and I was confused because she wasn't wearing a UPS uniform. Then I remembered who she was and I opened the box right there on the porch. My beautiful candle is gracing my dining room table and looks great there. Thank you so much.

As I write this storm has settled on Payson. Much thunder + lightning and a really heavy rain driven by strong winds. Already my soil and gravel are washing down the banks. I also realized that my drains need cleaning. They are probably loaded with needles. But these heavy rains don't usually last more than an hour.

This past week has been a full one for me. Sunday afternoon there was an ice cream social at church and I "pigged out". Wednesday was my yoga class and Thursday all day I helped Ernie and Gertrude prepare for their yard sale. There sure was a lot of "stuff" to price and it was a very hot day. They only have room fans for cooling. Their daughter Sherri came up from Phoenix ~~Friday~~ Thursday afternoon to help and stayed all day Friday. Hwy 87 was closed until 10 p.m. because of that terrible 10 car wreck so she left early Saturday morning to go back home. Saturday a neighbor came by to help with the sale so I went to a fun show that brought back a lot of memories. There were ponies

Dear Willielee —

Thank you for the letter which keeps us informed of your many & latest activities. You seem to be doing all the "right" things — but the pain never totally leaves — only recedes —

Thank you also for sharing the news of Summers' graduation and prom. She truly is lovely to look at and will find the "world" less scary as time goes along — I think most of us who were fortunate enough to have happy childhoods & teen years are reluctant to move ahead. I am returning the photo because we are currently going through photos & things & throwing out much — after asking our kids what they want. I know you will want this for someone in your family. We are enjoying Oregon's beauty, but wishing we were nearer our kids.

Love to you Willielee —
Pat Gangel.

Oh Dear Willie

It sounds as if you're dealing with things on a sound level. I'm proud of you. Hang in there!

Love
Edwin

FROM THE EDITOR

Was anyone wondering what happened to the rest of their subscription? This issue took longer than I had planned, but here it finally is, and I hope it was worth the wait.

Here in the Tennessee Valley spring is fast approaching, and that means time for family reunions! If you know of any, send pertinent information (include name of contact person) for future publication.

I've recently received a very sad letter from a subscriber. She lost everything she had in a house fire. What she's most worried about replacing is the family history - years and years of work now gone. "Please, please tell them to make a copy of your family history and keep it somewhere else; also the pictures you value most and the family Bible," she wrote. I couldn't agree more. I think pictures and the Bible should be taken to a safe deposit box, but copies of the family history would require - at least in my case - half the vault. Perhaps, instead, leave a copy with a relative or close friend, or give them to the genealogical section of a local library. Most genealogical collections will be glad to have more information to add to their files, but do check with them first.

Sincerely,
Paula Gammell

MY DOBSON, McGAUGHEY, AND ALLIED FAMILIES OF EAST TENNESSEE

Submitted by Helen W. Lent
HC 61 Box 165
Bristol, ME 04539

My grandmother, May Kennedy Dobson, was born 09 Jun 1873 in Washington County, Tennessee; she came from a family who had been in this area for many generations. Her father, Andrew Silas Newton (A.S.N.) Dobson, was a prominent physician in Greene and Washington Counties. He was born in 1840 and died in 1918. His mother was Lucinda Buchanan; his father was Isaac Calvin Dobson. The latter was a grandson of Joseph Dobson, who was a native of Scotland but immigrated to America and died in Greene County, Tennessee.

On my grandmother's maternal side were the McGaughey, Wilson, and Robinson families. Her great-grandfather, Maj. John McGaughey, was born in 1792 and died in Greene County in 1874. His wife, Hannah Jane Robinson, was a daughter of David Robinson, whose will, written 19 Jan 1813, is found in Greene County, TN, Will Book I, p.53-4. He names his wife, Peggy; two sons, James and William (who was under 21); two daughters, Jane and Polly; and a son-in-law, John McGaughey.

In 1894, when my grandmother married Wallace Maxwell Hamilton, they moved westward. She died in San Diego, California, on 04 Feb 1933. On page 102 is an ancestor chart showing all her known ancestors. More family information will be found on pages 104 (an account of a Dobson family reunion - which, by the way, should read 1911, not 1811), and 105 (obituaries for Dr. and Mrs. A.S.N. Dobson).

I'm so fortunate that Dr. A.S.N. Dobson kept a booklet in which he recorded all he knew about his family! I've been able to find many clues from that little book. On page 103 are some of its contents.

Should anyone have additional information on my East Tennessee ancestors, I would be happy to hear from you.

DOBSON REUNION.

For many months the parents and children had with great pleasure anticipated the family reunion which was set for Wednesday, July 19th, 1811. Before the clock had struck twelve on the day appointed, each of the six children and one of the sixteen grand children were seated at the table laden with many and delicious viands to tempt the taste and satisfy the wants of the physical man.

At one end of the table sat the father, Dr. A. S. N. Dobson, from which position for more than forty years he has dealt out the fat of the farm, the ham of the hog, the best of the beef, the freshest of the fish and the finest of the fowl, to the satisfaction of many and ever returning and increasing appetites. At the opposite end of the festive board was the wife and mother in her accustomed chair, where for more than two score years she has presided as queen of the culinary department, filling to overflowing the cup with tea and coffee, fresh just from the pot, fragrant and steaming hot; and the glass with the lacteal fluid, rich and yellow, fresh from the fountain of the kine.

Jubilant indeed was the occasion and one long to be remembered and cherished in the hearts of a united and happy family. It was the first time for more than sixteen years that the entire family had been together in the old homestead, for Father Time had separated parents and children far and wide and the hand of Providence had directed them into various and far-lying fields of activity and service.

The oldest of the six children is Mrs. Bartlett, who resides at Moberly, Missouri, where her husband, Rev. Robert A. Bartlett, D. D., is pastor of the Presbyterian church. The eldest son, Rev. Frederick F. Dobson, D. D., is pastor of the Presbyterian church of Tracy, Minnesota. The second daughter, Mrs. Hamilton lives in Sioux City, Iowa, where her husband, Rev. W. M. Hamilton, D. D., is pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Roy Calvin Dobson is pastor of the Presbyterian church of Highland Park, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago. The youngest son, Rev. Dean Newton Dobson, is pastor of the Elizabeth Avenue Presbyterian church of Newark, New Jersey. The youngest daughter and child, Miss Jess N. Dobson, resides with her parents near Limestone, where all the children were born and reared.

Mrs. Hamilton was accompanied by her eleven year old daughter, Ruth, and on Saturday, July 22nd, Mrs. Dean Newton Dobson arrived from her father's home near Philadelphia, Pensylvania, and joined the reunion.

Only one thing marred the pleasure of the occasion, namely: the brevity of its duration. On Thursday, the 27th, the reunion was formally and materially broken by the departure of Mesdames Bartlett and Hamilton and Rev. Roy Calvin Dobson to their respective places of abode and fields of labor. Rev. Frederick F. Dobson left the home next Monday morning, July 31st, westward bound. Thus ended a long looked for family fellowship and each participant thanked a kind Father for His paternal care and protection during the past years and they separated with the expectation of again gathering in the old home around a common christian altar ere the hand of time marks off many years.

FUNERAL DR. DOBSON WED. AFTERNOON

Andrew Silas Newton Dodson, one of the most interesting figures of Washington county for the past half century, died at Broylesville, Friday September 27th. He was born in Greene County, Tenn., Actober 5th, 1840. His parents were Isaac Calvin Dodson and Lucinda Buchanan Dodson.

A graduate of Tusculum College with the degree of A. B. and of the Nashville, Medical College, he served in the Confederate army until he was captured at Cumberland Gap. After the war for a number of years he taught school in Ohio and later in Tennessee, practicing medicine simultaneously.

As a physician in the practice of medicine it is estimated that he had ridden over 200,000 miles, or equal to eight times around the world. One of his patients tells of his personal knowledge that the doctor made forty six calls in one day. As an elder in the Salem Presbyterian church and superintendent of the Sunday School fifty years, as well as Trustee of Washington College for half a century, he was a man of wide influence. Besides his affiliation with the College he served as member of the Pension Examining Board for four years, served one term in the State Legislature.

He was devoted to his family, church and patients, who held him in love and reverence.

Becoming ill Tuesday morning, he passed away three days later on the stroke of nine, Friday night.

The surviving relatives are, his wife, Mrs. Nannie McGaughney Dodson, Limestone, and their six children. Mrs. R. A. Barlett, Sault St. Marie, Michigan; Rev. Frederick F. Dodson, D. D., Broken Arrow, Okla; Mrs. W. M. Hamilton, Sioux City, Iowa; Rev. Roy Calvin Dodson, D. D., Y. M. C. A. Miami, Fla; Rev. Dean Newton Dodson, Towarda, Pa; Mrs. R. E. Vale, Knoxville; one brother, Harvey M. Dodson, Knoxville.

W. F. Kipping, of the J. G. Sterchi Undertaking Company, is in charge of the burial.

The funeral will be held in Salem Church, Washington College, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. John C. Ritter and M. C. Jacobs, interment following at Washington College.

FUNERAL FOR MRS. DOBSON THIS A.M.

Body Will be Taken to Washington College, Tenn., for Burial Wednesday.

Mrs. Nannie Jane Dobson died at the home of her son, Dr. Dean Newton Dobson, 120 York avenue, Saturday morning, January 6, at five minutes past twelve. She had been in a helpless condition since the third of October, when she fell in her room and fractured her hip. Because of her advanced age and the frailty incident to old age, it was impossible to set the fracture.

She suffered a great deal of discomfort but was able to sit up in a wheel chair several hours a day until the last two weeks of her life when she began to grow worse and complications set in. The last week of her life was full of suffering and unrest and the angel of death was a welcome messenger and brought to her the relief which she had longed for and patiently awaited. She passed peacefully into the Great Beyond and undoubtedly received a gracious welcome by her Lord into the House of Many Mansions. Mrs. Dobson was born in Indiana the ninth day of February, 1839, where her parents had gone from Tennessee soon after their marriage in 1832. She was the third of five daugthers and the last survivor of the family.

When she was six years of age her father died and later her mother returned to Tusculum, Tennessee, where Tusculum College is located. Five years later she lost her mother, Mrs. Dobson was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson McGaughey. On the 28th day of December, 1864, she was united in marriage to A. S. N. Dobson, M. D., at Mt. Zion, Illinois. In 1866, Dr. and Mrs. Dobson located at Limestone, Washington County, Tennessee, where they lived until his death, September 27, 1918. She leaves six children, three sons and three daughters, and twenty-four grandchildren.

The children are Mrs. R. A. Bartlett, Saulte Ste Marie, Michigan; Rev. Fred F. Dobson, D. D., Monett, Missouri; Mrs. W. H. Hamilton, of Sioux City, Iowa; Rev. Roy Calvin Dobson, D. D., St. Louis, Missouri; Rev. Dean Newton Dobson, D. D., Towanda, Pa.; Mrs. R. E. Vale, Oak Park, Illinois. Her three daughters are the wives of Presbyterian ministers. Since the death of her husband Mrs. Dobson has made her home with her children, the last two and a half years having been spent with her son in Towanda.

Since her girlhood she was an active member of the Presbyterian church and practiced her religion in the home as evidenced by the fact that all of her children are engaged in Christian work. She was ever gentle, kind and gracious in her dealings with others and leaves a host of friends wherever she has been. Her children and friends "rise up and call her blessed."

Funeral services will be held at the home of her son on York avenue Monday morning, January 8, at 10:30, Dr. H. I. Andrews, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Her body will be taken to Washington College, Tennessee, where the final service will be held Wednesday afternoon in Salem church, of which she was a faithful member for forty-five years and in which her husband was a ruling elder.

Her former pastor, Rev. John C. Ritter will have charge of the service and that which is mortal of her will be laid at rest beside her husband in Old Salem Cemetery in the presence of hundreds of lifelong and loving friends. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

THE LEGEND OF THE INDIAN CAVE, GRAINGER COUNTY, TENNESSEE

by T.E. Roach

The Indian Cave lies near Blaine, on the Holston River. Thousands of years ago, the Holston River flowed just as it does today. In a stone bluff a little stream ran directly out of the stone and into the river. As centuries passed, this stream widened itself into a cave; the water source was located more than a mile from its mouth. This cave, one of the largest limestone caves in the world, became home for a group of Cherokee Indians.

The first white people came to Grainger County sometime just prior to 1780, and it was not long until the Indians were forced to move out. In the early 1800's a gristmill was built near the mouth of Indian Cave. For several decades, local residents were curious about the natural wonder in their midst, and by 1881 Indian Cave had become a tourist attraction. Nearby Lea's Springs Resort helped to publicize the cave in an 1883 advertisement. The flyer read, in part, "From Lea's Springs, it is only a short, pleasant drive to what is known as the Indian Ridge Cave. The main entrance to this great subterranean channel, is beyond a question of doubt one of the grandest and most imposing of its kind to be found anywhere in this country. The main entrance of the celebrated Mammoth Cave of Kentucky is insignificant compared to it...From the large quantity of Indian relics and bones found in and near its entrance, the supposition is that it was for a great period a deposit for their dead.

"The temperature of this little underground world is exceedingly uniform, averaging about 55 degrees the year round...For nearly three miles a wide solid road is easily travelled, where marvelous, beautiful grottos meet you on every hand...The services of experienced guides are always employed, so that the sight-seer or pleasure seeker runs no risk whatever in making the exploration."

A Mrs. Wooten purchased the land on which the cave is located prior to 1922, and started developing the cave and surroundings. No electricity was available for lighting the cave, so she bought a Fordson tractor which pulled a generator (or dynamo), and thus provided electricity for lighting. By this time, Americans were travelling and vacationing as never before. Mrs. Wooten built several log cabins for the tourists; Indian Cave soon became a major tourist attraction and a small fortune was made in a short time.

To include a personal note - at the age of fourteen I became one of the guides. I continued working on weekends and during the summer for twelve years. I never became bored with the job; the average tourist became so engrossed by the cave that they asked never-ending questions. I was more than happy to answer them as their curiousity meant I had done my job well.

An article appeared in the "Morristown Gazette" on November 16, 1881, concerning Indian Cave. It read as follows: "The greatest natural curiousity in East Tennessee is the great Indian Cave, about six miles north of New Market, on the Holston River, and only a short distance from Lea's Springs. This cave has been explored a distance of five miles, and is filled with wonderful formations of rock. Stalagfollowed. Richard Spurling, Jr., however, remained on his farm near Turtletown and continued his preaching. In 1907, the name was changed to the Church of God.

Why did Richard Spurling, Sr., decide to leave his ministry and break with the Baptist faith? From what records I have it would appear that he was unhappy with the Mans Creeds and Doctrines and wanted to return to the holiness which he felt was the basis of the New Testament. He is honored as being the first ordained minister, yet he never lived to see the fruits of his labor - the Church of God, which now numbers over 2 million believers worldwide.

mites rise from the floors, singly and in groups. In one room stands the frozen bride, a stalagmite in the form of a lady, with white veil, seeming a statue of ice. In another room, called the concert room, stands the frozen organ, a group of stalagmites, joined together at the base, and the upper spears lost to view in the utter darkness, resembling the pipes of a great church organ, all coated with ice. This concert room is about eighty feet wide and two hundred feet long, ceiling fifty feet high, studded with innumerable stalactites, some of them reaching half way to the floor. Millions of diamonds flash in ceiling and wall, and the echo from a single musical instrument is multiplied a hundred times and becomes a continuous roll of music, as if from a score of bands. About a mile from the entrance is the rotunda, with curved ceiling reaching up more than a hundred feet. No amount of torches can flash the diamonds in that ceiling; the darkness cannot be pierced, and tens of millions of bats swing there in festoons undisturbed.

"After leaving the rotunda, crossing the creek several times and winding on through fields of stalagmites, we come to the Devil's Chimney; we enter the arc and above as far as torches can flash their light, stretches this smooth walled chimney hundreds of feet. The creek that winds through this cave is a stream the size of our first creek, of sufficient capacity to run a mill, and travelling a distance of three miles in the cave. We crossed it several times. In some places it forms lakes - in others rapids and waterfalls, cascades and whirlpools."

BIOGRAPHY OF MAJOR WILL A. McTEER

[Excerpt from Tennessee: The Volunteer State 1769-1923, Vol.III. Copyright 1923, The S.J. Clarke Publishing Co., Nashville. pp 236-7.]

A descendant of an old honored American family is Major Will Anderson McTeer, a veteran of the Civil was and a prominent member of the Tennessee bar, with residence in Maryville. He was born seven miles east of Maryville, on the site of the old Gamble Fort, on the 16th of September, 1842, a son of Andrew Bogle and Nancy (Gamble) McTeer, likewise natives of Blount county. The paternal great-grandfather, Robert McTeer, came with his family from Pennsylvania in 1784, locating in Blount county. They were among the pioneer settlers there and a brother of Major McTeer's, Joseph G. McTeer, still owns a portion of the old homestead. Robert McTeer built a fort near the homestead as a protection from the Indians and he built the first gristmill in this section of the state. The mill proved a gathering place for many Indians and white settlers and Sevier on some of his expeditions made that place his rendezvous. During the Revolutionary war Great-grandfather McTeer served as captain of the Eighth Company, Cumberland Battallion. The paternal great-great-grandfather, James McTeer, was a captain of one of the early military organizations of Pennsylvania. The paternal grandfather, William McTeer, was born in Pennsylvania, while the maternal grandfather, Alex B. Gamble, was born in Virginia. Major McTeer is of Scotch ancestry on his grandmother's side. Upon the outbreak of the Civil war, on the 6th of August, 1862, enlisted in the Third Federal Tennessee Cavalry, as a private and was promoted to the rank of adjutant. Subsequently he was commissioned major of the same regiment and likewise served as assistant adjutant general at brigade and division headquarters. Major McTeer was active in many important battles but was neither captured nor wounded.

At the close of the war Major McTeer returned home and engaged in the conduct of a mercantile business for some time. Subsequently he enrolled in Maryville College, and in 1868 he was called to his first public office, being elected clerk of the circuit court. He was active in that capacity for ten years. RICHARD SPURLING, SR. - FOUNDER OF THE CHURCH OF GOD

Larry Spurling
12015 N.E. Siskiyou
Portland, OR 97220

My ancestor, Richard Spurling, Sr., was born in Tennessee in 1810 and married to Nancy J. Norman in Anderson County in 1832. By 1840, he owned a grist mill and lumber mill on the Clear Fork of the Cumberland River in Fentress County, Tennessee, having learned the wheelwright and gristmill business from his father.

Operating mills had been a family tradition since before 1800, and was continued by some of Richard's sons, Nathan, Hiram C., and Richard, Jr. To my knowledge Nathan had at least three mills during his lifetime in the Fentress and Morgan County area. Hiram C. had a grist/lumber mill in Morgan County near Sunbright. Richard, Jr. owned several mills in Polk County. Richard Spurling, Sr., owned mills from Fentress and Morgan Counties to Polk County. It is said that in his lifetime he either owned or helped construct over 30 mills, as well as making the stones and other necessary equipment.

Richard Spurling, Sr., belonged to the Popular Baptist Church and was ordained a minister for that church while making a living with his mills. In 1846 he moved from Fentress County to Morgan County and in 1852 became a charter member of the Clear Creek Baptist Church. In 1859 he moved to Monroe County. By this time he had become dissatisfied with the creeds and doctrines of the Baptist faith and preached against them.

In 1884, this dissatisfaction became so intense that he founded a new church, now known as the Church of God. Due to his advanced age, the leadership of the new church was soon turned over to his youngest son, Richard Spurling, Jr. The elder Spurling died in Anderson County, Tennessee, in 1891. [On page 117 will be found his family group sheet, including his eight children.]

But to return to the history of the new church. It grew very slowly but its pastor persevered, preaching there and at every other opportunity. In 1886, the Christian Union was organized, in Monroe County, under the pastorate of Richard Spurling, Jr. There were eight members. By 1896, there was a revival at the Shearer Schoolhouse in Cherokee County, North Carolina; this group combined with the Christian Union. By 1900, the Christian Union was almost destroyed due to fanaticism and persecution, yet still it survived. A simple plan of government was adopted in 1902, and the name changed to the Holiness Church. A.J. Tomlinson was chosen pastor in 1903; membership increased and the church spread. By 1905, there was a church in Georgia and two new churches in Tennessee. The first annual assembly met in 1906 in Cherokee County, N.C., and drew 21 delegates.

The focus of the church gradually shifted to the more populous Cleveland (Bradley County) area; Pastor Tomlinson had moved there about 1905, and many members dedicated word processing package. Your particular needs in looking for a software package can never be stressed enough.

When selecting any software play the detective and access your needs, quiz the software manufacturer's and the people you know who have the software that interests you most in order to find out the pros and cons of each program. A little legwork now will more than likely save many hours of hard labor down the road.

DATA BASE SOFTWARE

I have found that when you get your Computer that you can have complete satisfaction in using your computer or you can live a complete nightmare if your hardware and dealer are not in cooperation with you and your software. You should pick out your dealer and software like you would with any other major purchase. A dealer that cooperates very will with your needs can make the difference as to if your experiance with a computer is a pleasure or a nightmare.

Most people when they buy their computer have had enough experiance in their Genealogy or business so that they pretty much know what end product they want to come up with. One of the safest insurance's in buying software is to have a copy of the format of what you want your end result to look like. If the software manufacturer or dealer cannot give you your specified end product then look at other dealers and manufacturers. The only thing that may hold you back in getting your correct results would be your expense account. Often the supply and demand factor determines the cost of your software and if you are on a fixed income then this may be the block that prevents you in getting exactly what you have need for.

Even though you can get the software you want, you should strongly consider a data base software package. With the data base you can set up address listings, recipes and use it to set up existing records in other formats so that you can have a cross reference of your materials. With this you can call someone up by first or last name, dates, places, etc. A good data base allows you to set up a format without having to be a programmer. Please allow me to go into further detail on data base programs.

COMPUTERS AND GENEALOGY by Larry R. Spurling.

This is an informative book for the novice to read before purchasing a computer. Mr. Spurling begins by asking, "Is a computer for you?" and then helps you analyze if your needs would be met by one. He describes different features of various brands, as well as defining floppy disks, hard disks, monitors, modems, etc., etc. A section also covers word processors and typewriters. I found this book quite helpful.

Soft cover; 30pp; $4.50 plus $1 postage. Order from the author, 12015 N.E. Siskiyou, Dept. ETR, Portland, OR 97220.

SCHOLASTIC POPULATION, 1842

JEFFERSON COUNTY, TENNESSEE

(Part 2 of 3)

Eureka! Since the first installment of the 1842 scholastic population (ROOTS Vol.III, No.1), the set of loose papers showing district boundaries has been located! Dated 1840, this provides a detailed description of the boundaries and should prove invaluable to Jefferson County researchers. Following are the boundaries for districts 1 - 15, which appeared in Part 1.

State of Tennessee, Jefferson County. In pursuance to an appointment made by the County Court of Jefferson County at the April Sessions 1840 of said Court. We the undersigned commissioners, in accordance with the provisions of an Act of Assembly passed at the last Session of the Legislature of this State on the 28th day of January 1840, proceeded to lay off the County of Jefferson into forty-seven School Districts, having regard to a site for a School house in each School District, agreeably to the best of our ability and judgment.

School District No. 1 is bounded as follows, to wit, Beginning at Mount Sterling on the line between Jefferson and Hawkins Counties, and running thence westwardly with said county line, to a point directly north from Andrew Coffman's dwelling house, thence to James Lane's [Lowe's?] dwelling house at the Bull's Gap road, including the farm of the said Andrew Coffman and William Anderson, thence to the Widow Ninney's Big Spring, thence in a direct line to the Hawkins County line, so as to run between the dwelling houses of Clinton Pangle and Thomas D. Johnson, thence with said county line to the beginning. The place for holding elections in said School District for school commissioners shall be at the School house near Isaac Horner's ______ [illeg.]

School District No. 2 is bounded as follows, to wit, Beginning at the house where James Lane now lives on the Bulls Gap road inclusive, and running thence to the Greene County line by Marshall Courtney's, leaving the farm of Hannah Haun and the said Courtney in the 4th School District, thence with said county line to the Hawkins County line, thence with the said county line to the line of the 1st School District, thence with the line of said District to the Widow Ninney's Big Spring, running between the dwelling houses of Thomas B. Johnson and Clinton Pangle, thence to the beginning. The place of holding elections for School commissioners in said District shall be at Jacob Kirkpatricks Mill.

Dear Willielee -

Your travels were certainly fun-sounding but must have been exhausting. Keeping busy does push the pain out a little.

You have so many beloved relatives we need a program to figure out relationships.

We are going to Michigan to my 61st High School reunion Sept 11 - our old stomping grounds for special events - the Country Club - There aren't many of us still "vertical." Most of my dearest school friends are still among us but every year we lose more.

Ed & I still feel good most of the time. We think of you & miss irreplaceable Ben -

Love Pat

Hello, Mary.

Thrown together
without being asked,
no chance of escape...,

April 10 1998

Hello

If this isn't your 60th then my arithmetic is really bad. I'm going to be 68 and you are 8 yrs. younger than me. Right? Whichever it is I wish you a great day!

All's well here. Weather has been on again off again as far as Spring is concerned. In any case, Cliff is turning on the Sprinklers today and I'm going to try and find some Martha Washington's to put on the deck. Don't dare put them in the ~~[illegible]~~ yard as the deer eat them. This card might seem early, but I'll be trying to put my life together for getting ready to go to Santee on May 1st. Jason graduates on May 9th. Will come home on the 18th. George Nelson called last night. Mary is having some pretty serious open heart surgery next Friday (Apr. 17). I guess it shook me up a bit. I sure do love that gal.

Our New Pastor and family are moving into the Parsonage next weekend. I'm co-hostess for our next Auxiliary meeting. That's not a big deal, but when I help do all these things they have to be organized in my head as to what comes next. After that I and another lady put out the Auxiliary's Newsletter. It takes me a good portion of the day to type and illustrate that. I want to clear my calendar so the last few days of the ~~week~~ month I can plan my packing.

I praise the Lord that my problems are not any longer than that. At least not at the moment.

Well, this is all you get until I get the round robin which you won't get until we get back from California.

Oh yes, the biggest news is that Jay's wife Monique gave birth to an 8 lb 4 oz. 2:02 pm 20" little boy Wed. the 8th Dustin (Dusty) James is beautiful so Gayle says.

Happy Day! Love to you and Bill

Dear MaryAlice,

First I have to apologize for being so very slow at getting back to you! I think I do everything slower than I used to!

I hope I got copies of the right pictures for you. If I didn't please let me know and I will try again.

I must say that I really don't understand the big deal about the "empty nest" syndrome! Ever since Jay and Monique moved out the weekend before Christmas Jim and I love having the house to ourselves. Maybe we are just strange, but I really prefer not to have to see their problems everyday. We still see Jay every once in a while. Like when he needs to work on his truck, but also because he works for our next door neighbor. He is working as a plumber. He loves the work and they do mostly industrial and comercial businesses. Like Jay says, that means they don't spend everyday un-plugging Toilets!

Jason and Rory are doing great. Rory got on full-time at the pre-school where she teaches so that helped. Now Jason doesn't need as many hours while he gets through this last semaster. I can not believe he will actually graduate in May. He is even talking about going on to get his Master's degree! He is the one we were afraid might not make it through High School. And he is doing it in style. Last semester he brought home all "A's" !!! Married less than a year, working, and going to school full-time and he pulls grades like that. I guess he works best under pressure. Of course it helps that he loves what he is doing.

Jim caught that terrible cold that was going around and seemed to take weeks to get over it. He has finally shaken it, and fortunately I did not get it.

I don't know if Jay and Monique are any good at sending thank yous, but I want you to know that they did receive your gift. That was really nice of you and they can certainly use them!

I have gone back to work now. I know I am a lot slower at my work than I used to be, but they've been great and not even complained. I am okay driving, but I don't want to have to go too far or drive at night. My eyes are still the same. The doctor says that could still change, but probably not. So--- get used to it. I'm fine til I do small close up work or much reading. Then I have to take breaks and rest my eyes. But it could be lots worse so I will get used to it. For some reason numbers are my real down-fall. Ones dissapear on me and eights look like threes and sevens look like ones... well you get the idea.

So I've gotten to where I re-check and re-check again. However, I can say my check book has balanced the last few months, so I must not be doing too bad.

Well, I think that pretty well fills you in on life around here. Hope all is well with you!

Take care!

Love,

Gayla

Don't forget - let me know if I sent the wrong pictures!!!

Oh yes, I forgot to ask the girls, but if you send me one of the sheets you want them to fill out I'll see what I can do. I don't think they would mind. (I can copy [illegible] it)

Dear Gayle & Jim

Now its my turn to opologize for being so very slow at getting back to you! My only excuse is -----is I am slowing down in my old age. Hopefully that excuse will work. Ha-Ha.
I'm sure you have noticed that this has been done on a computor. Well I know absoulutly nothing about computors so this is a learning exercise for me and hopefully it will be readable to you. John--the guy Lori is engaged to gave me this old computor. In its day it was the top of the line but now its just another computor that I hope I can learn enough about to be abale to type ABLE out letters and do my family research on. I hope this thing does not get the best of me. Wish me luck cause it will be badly needed. Otherwise I will go back to my old typewriter. At least that thing beeps at me when i misspell something and I can correct it if I hear it in time. But anyway I want to thank you so very much for sending the pictures I had asked for.
they were exactly what I had wanted. You did perfect. Willie says thank you too when she gets to see them. I haven't told her they were here yet but eventually that is something else that I will get around to doing someday. I have enclosed $4.00 to cover cost of pictures being made plus your shipping and handling costs. Hope that is enough. I had a twenty and those four ones so the ones are what you got as you are not getting my twenty. That will be spent soo enough. But again thanks loads.

So glad to hear that you doing better. Driving and working are definitely good signs that you are on the upswing. That does make my heart fill good. And yes I know how you and Jim feel about the empty nest syndrome. Bill and I love it too. We adjusted to super fast. Today Lori and John came and got all of Lori's stuff that was stored here. Well actually there are still two boxes here but I am going to throw away most of what is in them. Now all we have here is bike of Carrie's that she probably has forgotten about, a childs rocking chair of Craigs and ALL or least most of all of Kyles things. At this point don't have a clue as to when Kyle will get his things. He really isn't looking to hard for that new place he says he is looking for to buy. But he doesn't live with us so thats good.

Tomorrow is Kyles 35th birthday. So today we had him and Craig over dinner/lunch. Bill barbecued spareribs and I put on a pot of beans, made a loaf of bread in my new (was a christmas present) bread machine, made pototoes au gratins, a salad and cupcakes. We ate at 1 o'clock but you can bet at dinner time no will be hungry again.
we do enjoy having each of the kids over now and then for a meal. There is so many of them it seems like that we try to have one here and one there occasionally. We enjoy them more that way.

Sounds like both of your boys and their spouses are doing just great. I'm glad Jay & Mo liked the towels. Towels are something everyone can use and everyone needs something new once in awhile.

We still babysit the grandkids here and there and enjoy every minute of it. Even have the two OLDER ones over once in awhile to spend time with us old folks as they and us too still need quality time together. Bill and I both are still plugging along in our unfancy jobs but it gives us a reason to get up each morning and start moving around each day. But it was rather hard on Bill last week. First it would rain and by the time it dryed out to where he could back to work again it would rain again.. So he got no work done at all last week. But it did give me time to go sit down at the HIM motor vehicle dept. to get a mess straightened out that they of course messed up on. He waited around an hour one day and left because there was literatly 38 people with numbers still ahead of him. So he went back the next day and was there when the place opened and that day he only had to wait 45 minutes as there were 15 people ahead of him. He says he has no clue how IN FRONT they got of him but they did as their numbers came up sooner than his did. Oh well he got the job done finally and at least this mess is straightened for at least one more year.

I've enclosed 2 family sheets I would like the girls to fill out for me if they would. Tell them I would really appreciate it. I'll even leave it up to you to send them back to me so they won't have to mess with it.. Thank you for reminding me that I wanted to do that as I had forgotten.

I know this is not the usual long boring letter that you usually get (it is just a short boring letter) but I have to close for now. Do take care and again thank you so much for taking the time to make your old aunt happy by getting pictures made and having your daughters in law fill out papers for us. (Us is Willie and I) Do continue to take care of yourselves, enjoy your empty nest syndrom & write again soon as I do love hearing from you.

Love

P.S. When Willie gets here soon she is going to give me a few tips on operating this thing. One thing I havent figured out yet is how to correct a mistake a few lines ahead of me. That is probably so simply to do but I havent figured that out yet. Oh well - at least old age has its compensations for the dumb things I do.

Dear Auntie's,

Are you having one big party?! Mary Alice, I thought you were through having houseguests. Is it like having one of your kids home again? Willie Lee, you'd better behave.

A short time ago we arrived here at the Oregon coast near Lincoln City. Jim's parents are generously paying for us & Jim's brother & wife to stay at the same place they are staying. We get a free breakfast too. We have a beautiful view and don't plan on leaving to run around. I love the sound of the waves crashing. Jim's birthday is tomorrow, so I brought the gifts and cards along.

Tim is thrilled to have the house to himself. He says he needs plenty of time alone. That was a new one to me because it seems like he's always busy w/people. He's a people person, making friends pretty easily. But he said that at college he spends a lot of time alone resting & studying. All we hear about are the activities. He had to have a car for work this summer since we only have one. He loves it, now that he has learned how to drive a stick shift! He's doing all the grounds keeping for his church and gets pretty tired. He's having a Bible study w/2 of his male friends and a long ditance Bible study on one of the Old Testament prophet books via e-mail. This is because she is in Japan for the summer where her parents are missionaries.

She (Karen = car in) gets jobs as a translator because she grew up in Japan after being born and living a while in South Africa. Canada is their base country and she has a brother who only lives a half hour away from the college.

Meanwhile, Matt was here last weekend and brought a sweet girl with him (but they are only friends). He had some preliminary interviews for teaching jobs. They approved of him so now his name goes in a file for principals to look through when they need to fill a position. Oregon has lots of teachers retiring because they get some special retirement plan. He has applied in Spokane also. He needs a summer job too because school gets out this week + there will be no more substituting. He doesn't like being a substitute but it pays pretty well.

Thurs

While we were on the beach in beautiful weather yesterday, there were several seals in close to shore. It was fun to watch them. Also there are 2 bald eagles in an old tree halfway up the bluff. The shoreline + old wind beaten trees are beautiful too. I could spend all my time watching + praying + day dreaming. I'd like to go sit on the balcony but it's too drizzly. I guess yesterday was our only good weather day.

I've never made coffee in my life but right now I'm trying to use a coffee maker (which I've never used) to get hot water for tea. I just hope it doesn't taste like it smells - coffee, coffee.

Jim + I still have to live with + sometimes fight with our health issues although his are much worse than mine. But God promises to be right here going through it with us and holding our hand and helping + strengthening us.

We no longer have any pets! Yea. Tally had kidney failure so he had to be put to sleep. It was his own fault. He got into some sort of grease + we couldn't cut through it enough to get it all off of him. So his licking it probably is what hurt him.

That's all the news I can remember.

Have a great visit!

Love,

Debbie

Benjamin Hunter Brown I, 69, died of heart failure on October 9, 1996 in Colorado Springs, Colorado. Mr. Brown was born Dec. 14, 1926 at City Hospital in Morgantown, West Virginia, to Charles K. and Lucretia Marie (Shillingburg) Brown, who are both deceased.

Mr. Brown graduated from West Fairmont High School in 1944 and attended Fairmont State College before joining the USNR- Merchant Marine Academy. He also served two years of active duty in the Army, obtaining the rank of Staff Sergeant. After his tour of Japan, he worked in various business fields. These included, Management positions at, North American Rockwell, Columbus Ohio, and Anaheim California, Manaufacturing Manager at Union Carbide Corporation, Electronics Division, San Diego, California, Products Assurance Director, Garrett Micro-Circuits Corporation, San Diego, California. For Burroughs Corporation, he held the positions of Manufacturing Manager , San Diego California, and General Manager for their Carlsbad, California plant. Motorola Inc., in Schaumberg Illinois he became the products manager before accepting the position with Digital Equipment Corporation.

In 1977, Mr. Brown worked as Plant Manager for Digital Equipment Corp (DEC), in San German, Puerto Rico. It was through DEC that he was then transferred to Colorado Springs in Spring of 1979 where he had held management positions at DEC. Through his many contacts and business experience, Mr. Brown co-founded and was president of Brown Disc Manufacturing, Inc. this was the first big Colorado Springs based high-tech company.

"He was a giant, a strong pioneer and a very strong engineer," said his friend Don Andres, who founded Nighthawk Industries and now owns Avalanche Industries, Inc.

Brown began making floppy magnetic disks that stored computer data. It was during this time that Brown Disc was one of the suppliers of diskettes to IBM. By 1984, the company had grown to an $18.5 million-a-year business and won a patent for it's technological breakthroughs.

"He was a pioneer; a great innovator," said Ronald Cole, current president of Brown Disc. "he developed a lot of technology for the 5 1/4 inch floppy disk. He created the first spin-coded floppy disk. That was a big pioneering development in the early '80's. It allowed larger storage and greater lasting wear. Information was harder to destroy with that technology."

Much of the technology Brown developed remains in use in the 3 1/2 inch disk. Brown Disc Manufacturing Inc. was the first company to use the Life-Time Guarantee/Warranty.

Mr. Brown's wife, Willie Lee Brown recalls the early days of Brown Disc and how her husband got involved in every aspect of the company.

"He wasn't above mopping and buffing the floors of whatever needed to be done," she said. "He loved his company."

He could be found at the company football, and softball leagues. At Christmas time he could be seen passing out presents and singing Christmas carols to the employees on every shift. Employees of Brown Disc, felt that they could go to talk with him at any time and feel important and appreciated.

"He genuinely cared for us," recalls a former employee of Brown Disc, "he wasn't phoney and was very honest with all of us about the company matters."

Brown also cared for the world around him and tried to help others in anyway possible.

"We were starting a new line of disks called Scholar, to send to the schools all across the nation," said Bob Ford, former employee of Brown Disc, "Ben thought that it would be a good idea to enclose pictures of missing children in the boxes in hopes that some would be found. One teacher had a box of Scholar and found that she had a missing child in her classroom. When word got back to us we went to Ben and told him the news, and what a wonderful marketing concept that this would be for Brown Disc. Ben stated 'we did this for the children, not for Brown Disc. Not many people knew this until now."

In 1984, Brown sold his company to the French conglomerate Rhone-Poulenc. Just before disk prices plunged, forcing industry wide cutbacks. The company was sold again in 1987.

Brown retired from active management of his company in 1985. He travelled and did private consulting work for Digital Equipment in Greenville, SC and 3-M corporation in Columbia, MO, before discovering Analytical Development's chemical treatment process last year.

In 1991, at 64 years of age, Brown created Environmental Directions Inc. to sell a product called METL/Clear, a chemical treatment that Brown said removes copper, lead, zinc, mercury and other heavy metals from industrial waste water. The treatment reduces the amount of sludge that settles from waste water, and the captured metals can be purified.

"I figure I'm good for another 20 years," Brown said at the time, "With my Background in the electronics business and semi-conductors and printed boards and disks, I know what industrial waste streams are."

In recent years, Brown was semi-retired and lived on a 30 acre ranch just north of Colorado Springs with his wife of 23 years, Willie Lee Brown. He did consulting work but no longer participated in day-to-day operations of Environmental Directions. Through his consulting work he helped many small business' get started with his expertise and wisdom.

"When Ben talked, people sat silently and listened to what he had to say." said Bernie Fergon, business partner. "People were mesmerized with him and awestruck with his knowledge and foresight. He had a amazing business mind. He will be missed."

Brown is survived by his wife of 23 years, Willie Lee (Ham) Brown, who lives in Colorado Springs. He is also survived by two sons, Randy Salisbury, of San Diego, California and Benjamin Hunter Brown II of Lewisburg, Tennessee; two daughters, Cindy (Brown) Onufer of Colorado Springs, Colorado, and Karen (Brown) Bright of Morgantown, West Virginia; a brother, Kepler Brown of Richmond, VA, and three sisters, Virginia (Brown) Petrie of Annadale, New Jersey, Janet (Brown) Isner of Grafton, West Virginia, and Joann (Brown) Atkinson of Monterey, California; six grandchildren and 2 great-grand children. He was preceded in death by a sister Jean Marie (Brown) Nigh of Fairmont, West Virginia.

Dear Lynn, Dwight, Shelly and Micah,

Yes, I know I am a bit slow in getting a letter off to you, but I love you. My trip to Mesa was cool, and Summer and I had a good time. It was nice in Phoenix for awhile and then got really hot, but to my understanding it's been pretty hot there also. Here near the beach it has been more pleasant, but we have had some times of heat. Enjoying my stay at Maryalice's, and having fun here in San Diego with the Kids.

Let's see, I guess I should start the story of my adventure away from Parker with the day I left. As you remember, Summer and I left the Springs on June eighth for Mesa, and a visit with Maryalice and Bill. The first day we stopped at the little town of Las Vegas, New Mexico for a night of rest. Summer was surprised when I pulled off the highway; driving into this darling little motel up in the high desert. She had been reading and hadn't seen the signs as I drove off the main highway. I said we're here and she was quite surprised and pleased, because she didn't know there was another place called Las Vegas. She doesn't like Las Vegas, Nevada. The motel was decorated all south western style and lovely. We ate Mexican food to keep the south western mood going; had Taco Bell. Ha!

Solitaire

Drove up the road a short distance to Santa Fe where we did the Tourist thing of sightseeing. Enjoying the shops was the most fun, and having a great lunch at a French Restaurant Summer had spotted early. She was thrilled with the French ascents of the owner and waiter, and discussions of France was what I listened to all through the meal; to my delight. The smile on Summer's face tickled me. It was a restful day, which we both needed after our months of hard work. We stayed the next night in Flagstaff, and it was cold, and felt good. We went to a great restaurant for a fish dinner. I am trying to keep on my diet of fish at least three times a week,because my doctor wants me too. Summer loves good fish, so she's great to go to dinner with. Next day we traveled through Oak Creek Canyon with it's beauty and coolness surrounding us. We drove on to Sonora the home of towering red rock and darling shops. We looked into many of the cute little shops before going to lunch where we both had fish again. Drove in early in the afternoon to Mary's and Bill's. The cactus on the way down to the desert floor was healthy and green and soooooooo lovely to the eye. Summer enjoys the desert like I do, to my pleasure. We played cards, yakked and Summer and I shopped for a few summer shirts for her to take to Karen's and Matthew's in West Virginia where she will spend the rest of the summer. I put her on a plane June 16th and she was so excited, however she was a bit scared to fly by herself. She wanted to go, however and nothing was going to stop her. I just smiled and was so proud of her. It's hard to do that on your own for the first time. I am happy to report she is having a wonderful relaxing time.

Maryalice and her son, Craig were going to take me to the circus one day, but when Lori found out we were going, she and her son, Tyler wanted to go. Then Carrie and her daughter, Andrea and before long we had three more children from daughter Robins family. We had cake at Mary's to celebrate Grandson, Ryan's birthday. Leaving some of the family at home we climbed into two cars, and soon found ourselves down town Phoenix, and sitting in the big tent. Actually the tent was a big building, but you had the feeling of the big tent. I had as much fun watching the faces and hearing the laughter of Maryalice's grandchildren as I did the acts performed.

A couple days I went to the mountains, to Payson where I stayed with a girlfriend who lost her husband right after I did. We ate lunch out three times and went to Tonto National Forest's "Tonto Natural bridge". The trail was steep and difficult for anyone to negotiate, but there were two 65 year old plus ladies who was not going to allow that to stop us. We had a fantastic day. Twice we striped her raspberry brushes of the sweet tasting berries eating them before we could get them into the house, watered the yard twice, and then it rained both days. We laughed and enjoyed the smell and coolness the rain provided us. It was especial nice the day we had hiked into the canyon to see the bridge and water falls, because for awhile the climb/walk was a bit warm. I slept with the window wide open and enjoyed the fresh mountain air. I was so relaxed that it's the first time I had a good nights sleep since Ben went away. Oh! but it felt good. We went shopping and I added to my elephant collection a darling little African elephant. We had a lot of years to catch upon, so we yakked and yakked. It was a great time. I have promised to stop by for another couple days on my way back home again.

On the 21st of last week I drove over here to San Diego for a couple weeks stay with Randy and Karen Hall. Karen flew down from Denver the day before. We made a list of things to do, and we are keeping ourselves very busy. First day, soon after I arrived, Randy full of vim, vigor and vitality came balancing in from work. He took a quick shower and then fixed us a fantastic barbecued dinner. We chatted for several hours trying to get caught up on all our news, before I had to collapse into bed for a nights slumber. I did not have all that energy Randy was displaying. We made plans for our stay which includes trips to the Zoo, Wild Animal Park, Sea World and a San Diego Padres baseball game. Anyway, the next morning I was ready to start vacationing. Karen and I went shopping for Randy's birthday gift. After watching him cooking on his old small barbecue, I decided it was time he had a nicer one to enjoy. So we spend the whole day on that little escapade. If they had of left this town the way it was when I was growing up I wouldn't have taken all day just finding my way from store to store. We stopped for a nice lunch, and talked a long time. Just barely arrived back to Randy's apartment when he came strolling in. We were to lazy to cook after a hard day of shopping, don't laugh that can be reallyyyyyyyyy hard work. After piling into my car, we went to old town for a Mexican meal. Stood in line quite some time, but finally made it to the front. We ate out on the patio, and had an enjoyable meal and evening.

Since Randy lives in Pacific Beach, not to far from Sea World, and it's summer every evening at around ten we are treated to an exciting display of fire works. Have been enjoying my stay in Mesa at Mary's and Bill's. I've been teaching my baby sister to use her computer that was given to her. This is a feat that surprises me, because I have never had any training in this area myself. We are moving along in this field very nicely, because she has been playing with the computer for some time now. Mostly she was writing letters and playing games, but that was good enough to give her a head start. Have even loaded my genealogy program onto her hard drive. The credit for this job goes to Summer and Karen. By long distance telephone Karen talked Summer through the process, so the only credit we can take is the fact that one of us dialed the phone, and I can't remember which one did that. Ha Ha!

Had some small work done on the car, and then had to take it back in for a couple of days. The air conditioner needed a new compressor, and high, something or other, hose replaced. In the desert heat you have to have an air conditioner. There was no way I was going to drive across the desert to see Randy with out the cool air. So what does it do???? The day I left I know sooner saw the sign leaving Mesa until it started to rain. It rained so hard for two hours that a couple of times everyone had to pull to the side of the road until the rain eased, and the heaviest part moved on past us. Afterward, the desert looked so beautiful, cool and fresh from it's drenching. I really enjoyed my trip over here. Stopped in Yuma to say good-bye to Randy's X-Wife, Loida since I didn't get to go to the burial. Put some beautiful flowers on her grave for Randy, and the grounds keeper said he would see to it that they were watered until they too passed on. To many losses, and now my brother is doing bad. His cancer can't be stopped; the doctors are telling him. He is to make a trip to LA to see a cancer specialist soon, though. I talked to him last night and he and his wife are going to take time traveling around the country, since they just sold their home. Don wants to travel since that has always been his dream. I don't know what Jackie will do after he is gone, but in this old world who knows what is going to happen. He might out live her. His isn't in any real pain at the moment, and we are praying he will get his six months of travel. He has a good frame of mind about the whole thing.

I really do have some beautiful news to tell you. As of 18 July; I became a Grandma of two darling little boys. Karen and Matthew are in the process of adopting these sweet little guys, and will raise them as their own. I am so thrilled, and I know Ben would have been, also. He has always loved his grandchildren. He would gripe and complain, and laugh and enjoy them, and wrap them in his special love, like he did the rest of us. The boys were three and five, however the oldest, blue eyed and blonde haired, Matthew Thomas had his big "6" years old birthday yesterday the 31st of July. Our brown haired and brown eyed Joshua Hunter will be four the 28th of August. The first thing they did when they arrived at Karen's and Matthew's was to call their new Grandma. It was really neat to hear the words, "HI! Grandma". I sent flowers and balloons from us all. The florist put one of our names on each balloon including the four of you. Tom was thrilled, he has had a very hard life to this point. Although we know for a fact that his last foster parents were great.

Was going to a Padre's baseball game this past Saturday, but I ate something that didn't agree with me, so had to stay home. Randy and Karen went to the game, going into one gate, and received hats they were giving away. Karen took Randy's hat and he went outside coming in another gate with my ticket, and got me a hat. Ha! bet that was the most expensive hat given away that day. But I love my new hat. The kids enjoyed the game and the Padre's won. Randy and Karen went to Randy's friends house for his yearly birthday dinner, and fun evening the same day. They went bike riding, played with the kids and then got down to some serious card playing. They came home full of descriptions of their evening and laughter. It made me feel good to be with them. The cat and I enjoyed a steak dinner together here, and I do believe that "Darn" cat ate more of the steak than I did.

Sunday we went to the Zoo, and it was HOT! But it didn't stop us at all. We walked until we saw everything and it was to dark to see. We spent time in the gift shop, and did our wishing I could have that, and that. Went away with a post card and a little pin of an elephant. Was going to get a pin anyway, because I have two blouses with me that require a little help holding the blouse in the right position. Karen bought her two children tee shirts. Randy just walked around in circles waiting for us. We were thrilled to find ourselves a parking place up near the entrance when we arrived. That thrill turned to pure joy when we finally left the Zoo, because we were dragging. Had put a roast in the slow cooker before we left the house, so dinner was easy and quick and tasty.

We stayed home Monday to rest, wash clothes, etc. Tuesday Karen and I took a car tour of a few sights. I was surprised when I found myself going almost directly to the places I wanted to take Karen. We stopped for lunch on the bay, so we could watch the ships, boats and sky line of San Diego. That evening Karen and Randy took me to a "Fifties" restaurant where the crew are dressed the part, speak the part, and the music is from the same era. Was really fun, watching the waiters and waitress dance and trying to see all the old stuff on the walls. Wednesday we went to Santee to see my niece (Bennielee's youngest daughter), and take a baby gift to her son and his wife. Then over to El Cajon to see a cousin (she's doing some family tree work) and an Aunt. Have lost almost all my aunts and uncles or I would be visiting people all day. Today I am going to do a few necessary duties. Karen and I plan a adventure to the Wild Animal Park on Thursday, but were so tired. She stayed home and I went shopping for Thomas. We were going on Friday, but went shopping on the Bay, at the seaport village instead. Had lunch at Anthony's on the bay, was nice. Used the barbecue again last night, and then played cards and laughed a lot. Today we will spend the afternoon and evening at Sea World. Sunday I am driving up to my brother's in Murrietta. It's about an hour and a half, may be two depending on the traffic. We will visit and then go to dinner.

Monday Karen and I will wash, clean and such. Maybe fixing a dinner to take to Mission Bay, so we can enjoy the boats, a walk, fresh air, a card game and each others company. Maybe we could stay long enough to watch the fireworks again, but this time we would be a little closer to them. On Tuesday Karen will be flying home. I will visit some more family on Tuesday and may be have lunch with a girl friend if I can get a hold of her. Wednesday or Thursday I plan to go back to Mary's and Bill's, were Maryalice and I will get back to the family tree work.

I am well for an Antique Person, although I will admit my legs are still a bit stiff from have been, also. He has always loved his grandchildren. He would gripe and complain, and laugh and enjoy them, and wrap them in his special love, like he did the rest of us. The boys were three and five, however the oldest, blue eyed and blonde haired, Matthew Thomas had his big "6" years old birthday yesterday the 31st of July. We stopped for lunch on the bay, so we could watch the ships, boats and sky line of San Diego. That evening Karen and Randy took me to a "Fifties" restaurant where the crew are dressed the part, speak the part, and the music is from the same era. Was really fun, watching the waiters and waitress dance and trying to see all the old stuff on the walls. Wednesday we went to Santee to see my niece (Bennielee's youngest daughter), and take a baby gift to her son and his wife. Then over to El Cajon to see a cousin (she's doing some family tree work) and an Aunt. Have lost almost all my aunts and uncles or I would be visiting people all day. Today I am going to do a few necessary duties. Karen and I plan a adventure to the Wild Animal Park on Thursday, but were so tired. She stayed home and I went shopping for Thomas. We were going on Friday, but went shopping on the Bay, at the seaport village instead. Had lunch at Anthony's on the bay, was nice. Used the barbecue again last night, and then played cards and laughed a lot. Today we will spend the afternoon and evening at Sea World. Sunday I am driving up to my brother's in Murrieta. It's about an hour and a half, may be two depending on the traffic. We will visit and then go to dinner.

Monday Karen and I will wash, clean and such. Maybe fixing a dinner to take to Mission Bay, so we can enjoy the boats, a walk, fresh air, a card game and each others company. Maybe we would stay long enough to watch the fireworks again, but this time we would be a little closer to them. On Tuesday Karen will be flying home. I will visit some more family on Tuesday and may be have lunch with a girl friend if I can get a hold of her. Wednesday or Thursday I plan to go back to Mary's and Bill's, were Maryalice and I will get back to the family tree work.

I am well for an Antique Person, although I will admit my legs are still a bit stiff from our Zoo Safari on Sunday. When I fell on the stairs I did mess up my foot, but didn't feel it right away, because my knee hurt so bad. When it started to swell and I couldn't get my shoe on; then I knew there was a problem. Didn't go to the doctor until a large picture fell off the wall when I was dusting at Mary's. The picture came down on it's point on the other foot and it blow up like a balloon. Mary said you are going to the doctor, and if you want me to take you to pick up your car we are stopping at the doctors office first. She black mailed me! Ha Ha! One foot I had torn the ligaments, and messed up the muscles. That foot was and still is holding fluid, the other was really bruised. Well! at least nothing was broken. I will admit that I still feel that loneliness even when I am busy, of not having Ben to hold me and talk to me, it's so overwhelming most of the time. Enough of that. Hope your well and having a nice summer. Thank you for your kindness and care of me. Will see you in a month or so. Hope the garden gave you some tasty vegetables.

I love you all,

Summer & I had a pleasant trip here to Mesa, Arizona. Stopped in Las Vegas, New Mexico the first night out. We were so tired, however it was a beautiful day with lovely white clouds to intertain us with all these lovely/cute or interesting shapes. As usual this time of the year there are herd after herd of cattle up close to the fences. So many little calves cuddling up to Mama or chasing each other in their playful ways. We only went to Santa Fe, N.M the next day. We needed to relax & sightsee a little, which we did. Had a wonderful lunch at the "Cafe Paris" in old town. Summer was thrilled, because the waiters & owner were really French & had the accent. Summer took four years of French in school & she is so interested in anything French. Was a fun day. We didn't buy much, but loved the shops. Next day we drove all the way to over

Dear Karen, "HAPPY BIRTHDAY"

"I like you."

You're a rose-in-the-toes kind of person.

Much love,

Willielee

Flagstaff, Arizona. It was windy & cold. We had thought we would be wearing shorts by then, so had to rearrange are wardrobes. Had a marvelous fish dinner & a good nights sleep. Next day drove through the beautiful Oak Creek Canyon area & into Sedona with all the monoliths & buttes. We could have taken an Balloon or Helicopter ride, and really had an adventure, but we werent brave enough. So we enjoyed all the red rock from the ground, and had yet another lovely lunch. Summer shares my love for the beauty of the desert & we enjoyed many of the cactus that were displaying their showy flowers. My sister Maryalice & her husband Bill have made us feel right at home & we are comfortable & enjoying ourselves. Summer will leave for Karen's & Matthew's on Tuesday. I'm going to miss her. Maryalice & I will spend most of our time on our computers working with our genealogy. Have a great Birthday, love me —
